GERMANY'S THINLY-VEILED DICTATORSHIP

TERROR IN MUKDEN

"SHOT ON SIGHT" WARNING

CHAOTIC SITUATION IN THE CITY

SILENT STREETS

Peking, Aug. 13.
Mukden is in a state of complete chaos as a result of the activities of the "Volunteers" who have disorganized the town.

All public utilities have ceased to operate and the services are not likely to be restored for some time, according to Chinese official circles here, who declare that they have received reliable information of the events in Mukden.

The Japanese military are conducting a strenuous campaign in an effort to discover persons concerned in creating the confusion.

Orders have been issued commanding the inhabitants to remain indoors under pain of being shot down without warning.

Such futile measures are considered necessary reveals how effective the campaign of the Volunteers has been and suggests that it is "getting on the nerves" of the Japanese.—Reuter.

EXCHANGE MARKET UNCERTAIN

WATCHING EVENTS IN NORTH

The Hongkong dollar remains unchanged this morning at 1s. 4½d. The market is uncertain and very little business is passing there being a tendency to await developments in the North.

In London silver rose 1/16th. India and speculators bought while China sold, the market closing quiet with buyers satisfied. After the official fixing, the market ruled easier, America being inclined to sell.

In New York silver prices are unchanged, and the market is dull.

PONY STRUCK BY MOTOR CAR

LEG BROKEN: HAS TO BE DESTROYED

Lieut. H. R. R. Prior, of the Royal Artillery, reported to the police yesterday that a China pony belonging to him was being ridden in Queen's Road East, opposite Wellington Barracks, by a man when motor car No. 322 overtook a tramcar and passed between the pony and the tram.

The car struck the pony and broke its off hind leg. The animal was subsequently destroyed at the R.A.S.C. depot. The pony was valued at $300.

HOME FOOTBALL RESULTS

PRESTON & CELTIC WIN AT HOME

London, Aug. 30.
In the Second Division of the English League, Preston were at home to Barnley to-day, and made no mistake about the result, winning by six goals to one.

In this First Division of the Scottish League, Celtic entertained Ayr and won by four goals to one.—Reuter.

Captain Goering, one of Hitler's most trusted lieutenants, elected Speaker of the Reichstag.

MORE WAR DEBT ECONOMIES

REPAYMENT OF 4½ PER CENTS.

£2,000,000 SAVING IN INTEREST

London, Aug. 30.

To-night's London Gazette contains an announcement giving notice to the holders of the 4½% war loan 1925/45 that the loan will be repaid at par on 1st December next, together with the six months' interest due on that date. Interest on the loan will then cease.

Notice is also given to the holders of 4½% Treasury bonds 1932/34, that they will be repaid at par on the same date with the four months' interest due on that date. Interest on the bonds will then cease.

Following the success of the Five Per Cent. War Loan conversion scheme, the announcements were anticipated.

They were in fact foreshadowed in a Treasury statement last night.

OVER £150,000,000

The outstanding amount of the 4½ per cent stock is £153,222,376, comprising nearly £140,000,000 of the Treasury Bonds and a little over £13,000,000 of War Loan 1925/45, representing the outstanding balance of £900,000,000 issued in 1916.

The date of repayment coincides with the amortisation of the unconverted residue of the 5% War Loan. The cancellation will involve a refunding operation but the form which this will take will not necessarily be made immediately and the newspapers anticipate that the terms on which the Treasury will offer a refunding loan may not be disclosed before the end of September.

A net saving of about £2,000,000 in interest in next year's Budget is expected to be effected by the repayments decided upon.

FINAL AMOUNT IN DOUBT.

The amount which the Treasury will have to find in December as a result of last month's gigantic conversion operation and the present repayment proposals will not be known until after September 30 as the holders of £189,000,000 worth of Five Per Cent. War Loan (representing the balance of the original loan which by July 31 had neither been converted nor earmarked for repayment) will have the option of asking for repayment by the date.

As the claims for the repayment of this loan by July 31 amounted to £48,000,000, it is certain that with the repayments announced to-day, the Treasury will need at least £201,000,000 on December 1.

LOW INTEREST.

It is quite certain, however, that the Government will be able to borrow at remarkably low rates and will have no difficulty in meeting all its commitments on terms which will represent a large saving.

It is expected that the necessary funds will be raised by short-term borrowing.—Reuter and British Wireless.

MILITARY CASTE TO GOVERN

EMPTY NAZI TRIUMPH IN REICHSTAG

HINDENBURG ORDER

Berlin, Aug. 30.
WHILE THE HITLERITES WERE WAXING ENTHUSIASTIC OVER THEIR FIRST SUCCESS IN THE NEW REICHSTAG TO-DAY, PRESIDENT HINDENBURG, CAPTAIN VON PAPEN AND GENERAL VON SCHLEICHER WERE PUTTING THE FINAL TOUCHES TO THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A THINLY-VEILED DICTATORSHIP IN GERMANY.

That the Junker group now in control of the political situation have dropped Hitler definitely and are determined to keep him out of power is no longer doubted.

To-day, it was revealed that the Chancellor, Captain von Papen, has received full powers from the President to dissolve the Reichstag if it demands the annulment of old or new decrees or attempts to counteract his domestic policy. Documents to this effect have been signed by President Hindenburg and the datelines have been left blank.

EX-CROWN PRINCE RUMOUR REVIVED

It is indicated that the Government proposes to issue emergency decrees dealing with their economic programme at the beginning of next week.

In the Reichstag, shortly before the motion for adjournment, the name was read of one of the Big Four of the Nazi (Fascist) group, Captain Heydrich Goering as the Speaker of the House.

BIG MAJORITY.

The voting was 367 to 216 in favour of Captain Goering and the announcement of the result was the signal for a wild burst of enthusiasm by the Nazis.

Forming the biggest group in the Reichstag by a considerable margin, they rose as one man shouting: "Wake up Germany! Hall Hitler!"

The Communists responded with shouts of "Red Front! Hall Moscow!"

As Herr Zetkin, supported by two women, Communists tottered down the steps, he was replaced in the Speaker's Chair by Captain Goering.

TO SEE PRESIDENT.

In accordance with custom, Captain Goering and the Deputy Speaker will now request an interview with President von Hindenburg.

Captain Goering was a dashing aviator during the Great War. He caused a sensation at the last Presidential election by issuing a manifesto in favour of Hitler, the Nazi (National Socialist) leader.

He was Hitler's right-hand man in the "beer-cellars" putch in Munich in 1923 when he was wounded.

TRUSTED LIEUTENANT.

He is, in fact, one of the men in whom Hitler has the completest confidence, because he is the born organiser and because of his worldly polish.

Son of an old Prussian family which had numbered ministers of State in its ranks, husband of a Swedish baroness, member of the Reichstag, during the war he distinguished himself as a fighting officer and was awarded the order of "Pour le Mérite," something much higher than the rather cheaply bestowed Iron Cross. He walks with a slight limp as the result of an old bullet wound.

EMPTY TRIUMPH.

The voting in the Reichstag seems to suggest that the Nazis have control of the House, but the latest steps taken by the political circles are convinced that the men now in power have

EGYPT GOLD QUEST

£500,000 IN BULLION RECOVERED

(Special to "Telegraph")

London, Aug. 30.

More than half a million pounds worth of gold and silver have, up to the present, been recovered from the wreck of the sunken P. and O. liner, Egypt, by the Italian salvage-ship, Artiglio.

The Artiglio to-day docked at Plymouth with another ton of gold and silver, carelessly lying about the deck in boxes.

The bullion was, however, very carefully guarded when once it had been hoisted on to the quayside. It was placed in a special van, with heavy iron bars, for conveyance to London.

The salvage-ship is returning to the wreck immediately in pursuit of the remainder of her valuable cargo.—Reuter.

SEVNPENCE FOR A VOTE

BRITAIN'S BARGAIN ELECTION

London, Aug. 30.

Last year's general election in Britain was the cheapest on record so far as the cost of each vote was concerned. The total expenses of the candidates according to a White Paper issued to-day amounted to only £654,105.

The preceding election in 1929, which resulted in the return of the Labour Government, cost £1,213,507.

Votes polled last year numbered 21,656,373 and cost a little over sevenpence as compared with about one shilling two years earlier.—British Wireless.

WEST INDIES UNION

PERSONNEL OF THE COMMISSION

London, Aug. 30.

The Commission appointed by the Colonial Secretary, which is to visit the West Indies to examine the possibilities of closer union between Trinidad and the Windward Islands and the Leeward Islands, will comprise General Sir Charles Ferguson (Chairman), Sir Charles Orr and Sir Sydney Armitage-Smith.

They hope to leave not later than the middle of November. The Commission will proceed first to the Leeward Islands, spending December in the Presidency composing that group, January in the Windward Islands and reaching Trinidad in February.—British Wireless.

Among the passengers who arrived on the Empress of Asia this morning were Sir William Hornell, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Redmond, Mr. and Mrs. Wallond, and Mr. F. Lauder.

JURY'S MIND BLURRED

CHENG CASE DIRECTION CRITICISED

TO-DAY'S "APPEAL" HEARING

The summing-up of the Chief Justice (Sir Joseph Kemp) in the recent trial of Cheng Kwok-yau for procuring the murder of George Fung was attacked by Mr. F. C. Jenkins, K.C., before the Full Court this morning.

Mr. Jenkins' attack was based on eight points submitted yesterday, which he declared were essential for a fair and correct summing-up.

"The Chief Justice, in the second line of his summing-up, said he was taking the case on broad general lines," said Mr. Jenkins, "and he added, 'I hope rightly'."

Proceeding, he said the trial Judge had confessed he was not following the usual course and had pointed out that the case was an unusual one. "No-one will deny that the case was very difficult," said Mr. Jenkins.

MASS OF EVIDENCE.

"We know, too, that there was an exceptional mass of evidence. The evidence of Zimmern and Christie alone occupied 100 pages of the Judge's notes, and the Judge said that their evidence contained difficulties, improbabilities and inconsistencies.

"If there was a case in which a mass of evidence should have been sifted, in which there should have been full direction, in which the jury should have been given every assistance in solving the difficulties, this case is one.

"What is the possible state of mind of this jury as regards the evidence of Zimmern and Christie on this summing-up.

"Firstly, the whole of the Zimmern and Christie evidence had been admitted and placed before them as proper material for their consideration.

MURDEROUS HATE.

"Secondly, they were directed that the purpose of that evidence as a whole was to establish two things—the existence of murderous hate in the mind of the prisoner and the attempt to bring about the murder of Fung through Zimmern and Christie.

"Thirdly, the Judge directed that the issue in the case was whether the Crown had proved the accused was the man who employed Lau to organise the murder.

"They were directed that there was a distinct gap between the evidence of Tsui which did not implicate the accused and the evidence of Zimmern and Christie.

"Is it not clear that in these circumstances, the trial Judge should have assisted these gentlemen by directing them how they could bridge that gap?

"But a perusal of the summing-up discloses this fact—there is not a single sentence which gives the slightest assistance or direction to these seven laymen as to how by law, or to proper application of fact, they could solve these difficulties."

Continuing, Mr. Jenkins said that from the summing-up the jury may have thought they were entitled to take the Zimmern-Christie evidence in its totality and that the accused, on that evidence, was the man likely to have committed the crime—that he was just the sort of person to employ Lau.

BLURRED AND CONFUSED.

It was possible that the jury entered on their consultations with blurred and confused minds as to how they could rightfully apply the different parts of the evidence to the issues before them.

Mr. Jenkins then dealt with each paragraph of the summing-up. The jury, he said, were left to make up their minds on three points—whether they believed the Tsui evidence, whether they believed the Zimmern-Christie evidence, and whether they believed the limitation suggested about this.

The Bidding.

South passed, West opened with one No Trump—a bare minimum. North overcalled with two hearts, East bid three diamonds and South went to three hearts which bought the contract. At three tables the hand was actually passed out.

The Play.

East opened his fourth best diamond—the six spot—which South the dummy won with the ace. A small spade was then returned, the declarer winning with the ace and returning a small spade to dummy's 10. East winning the trick with the jack. East led the king of diamonds which the declarer trumped with a small heart. A small spade was then led and trumped in dummy. Declarer returned the king of trump from dummy which West won with the ace. Immediately returning the six of trump. Declarer won the trick with the queen and returned his last spade, trumping in dummy with a heart.

The No Trump bid by West had practically marked him with the ace of clubs, therefore the declarer now led a small club from dummy and when West refused to go up with the ace, the declarer played the king and then returned the deuce of clubs which East was forced to win—with the queen. West could not overtake with the ace to prevent the end play or he would set up dummy's jack of clubs.

Before leading the club, the declarer had been careful to strip the dummy's hand of diamonds and spades. The East hand was stripped of everything but diamonds. He was now forced to lead a diamond which the declarer trumped in the dummy and discarded the losing club from his own hand on it.

Stripping the hand down and then throwing East in the lead with a club forcing him to lead diamonds, gave the declarer four odd, but as only three were bid, no game bonus could be scored.

STAMPSMR. W. B. WATSON'S ADDRESS
TO CLUBCOLLECTING HOBBY

An interesting lecture was given at the Rotary Club this morning by Mr. W. R. Watson, the subject of the address being "The Spirit of Rotary in a Scrap of Paper."

The Chairman, the Hon. Mr. S.W. To, extended a welcome to the following visitors—Mr. H. Schmidt, Hongkong, Rotarian J.R. MacKenzie, New Zealand, Mr. R.R. Campbell, Hongkong and Mr. M.A. Cooper, Hongkong.

Addressing the Rotarians present, Mr. Watson said in part:

The emblem of Rotary is a wheel—a figure whose circumference is a circle, something without beginning and without end. The properties of a circle are discussed by Euclid but it is so many years since I passed through College that I can't for the life of me remember what that sage said about it. Anyhow, a circle is something round and when flat, like a coin, for instance, will, if placed on its edge, roll, no many of us have proved in our younger days when we accidentally dropped a sixpence in the street and saw it career into the gutter, out of sight and beyond redemption.

The wheel represented in your emblem has, like every perfect wheel, a hub and in this hub lies what I have termed the "Spirit of Rotary" which, as a result of the centrifugal force created by the revolutions of the axis, spreads along the spokes to the circumference and never ceases to exert its influence unless the wheel ceases to rotate. This description may be more picturesque than scientific, but it will, I believe, serve in a general way to illustrate my idea.

Establishing Rotary.

Rotary, if my memory serves me right, was first established as a "going concern" some 26 or 27 years ago. But long before that time the "Spirit of Rotary" was already in a state of ferment and unconsciously expressed itself in a rather unusual but very important manner 92 years ago, in keeping with the rule that the general idea about a thing almost invariably comes into existence long before the thing itself.

Like everything else in nature ideas are subject to the law of evolution. Thus our modern inventions are but the outcome of the efforts of our ancestors in ages past to solve problems which had to be left to us to conquer. Those among you who are Freemasons will appreciate my point when I recall that long before speculative Freemasonry took form in 1717 the Masonic idea existed, and can be traced back into dim antiquity when it served to form the foundation upon which was built up the social life of mankind in the dawn of civilisation. I am going to try to show you how this is also so with the postal system.

Ancient Postal Systems.

History shows us that postal systems for imperial purposes are very ancient institutions, the oldest known being that of China, known as the I Chan, or Government service of Couriers for the transmission of official despatches. This is mentioned in the records of the Chow Dynasty, some 3,000 years ago. This system remained in use until 1912 when the Chinese post office administration undertook the transmission of all despatches.

Coming down to more modern times, in the 13th Century, Britain had an organised system of royal post messengers whose supervisor was the forerunner of the Postmaster General. The first person to hold that position was Sir Brian Tuke, but it was not until Sir Roland Hill took up postal reform that anything like a satisfactory public system was perfect.

The transmission of the mails had, for many years been very unsatisfactory, in fact almost as bad as our present Trans-Siberian posta, and I expect quite a number of people had written to the editor about it. Moreover the income from the service had dwindled, and as the postal revenues were used to a great extent to pay pensions to people who had no connexion whatever with the service, sweeping reforms were badly needed.

First British Stamp.

Taking the number of letters that were handled by the London postal district, Sir Roland figured out that it would cost far less than 1d. to handle the average missive. Working on that basis he prepared a plan whereby for 1d. an ordinary letter could be sent anywhere in the United Kingdom, whereas at that time the average cost was from 4d. to 1s. 8d. Finally a Bill was prepared and sent to Parliament, which approved it. In 1839 Sir Roland Hill was appointed to carry out its provisions.

Now the point I want to emphasise is that it was here that the "Spirit of Rotary"—the spirit of the philosophy of service, found manifestation in what I have irreverently called a "scrap of paper," about one inch square in size, carrying on its face a line engraved design printed in black and on its back a surface of gum, for Sir Roland Hill intended his idea to stick and it did, and has gone on sticking for nearly a century. This was the first adhesive postage stamp, destined to become the world's greatest philatelic classic, the penny Black of Great Britain, bearing the portrait of Her Most Gracious Majesty, Queen Victoria—an example of postage stamp art that has never been excelled.

With the organisation of his postal system, Sir Roland Hill had created a sort of Garden of Eden in which the 1d. black was the first inhabitant. The Government acting along the line that it was "not good that man should be alone" added a 2d. blue, another classic, to keep the 1d. company, and these two stamps, the Adam and Eve of philately, kept one another company for about a year. Then, in obedience to the laws of nature, additions began to creep into the family, which goes to show how human postage stamps can be when properly understood.

Welding the Nations.

The postage stamp, unimportant as it may appear in itself, and the Universal Postal Union, have done more to bring together people of different nationalities in common accord for a definite object than any other human organisation. This sentiment is shared also by philately—the science of stamp collecting, in a remarkable degree.

It is commonly said that death is the great leveller, as it brings all mankind to a common level in six feet of ground, where, in the disintegration of the elements of the body, nature treats us all alike. But the postage stamp produces a like effect in a much more agreeable manner, for it brings kings and commoners to a common level in the pursuit of a hobby. As an outstanding proof of this we have the fact that His Gracious Majesty King George V is an ardent collector, and has not only instructed the curator of his marvellous collection of Great Britain and British Dominion and Colonial stamps to exhibit his prizes to all who desire to see them, but often takes delight in explaining to visitors in person, when time and circumstances allow, the principal gems which adorn the pages of his collection.

First Philatelist.

I might mention also in closing that the first stamp collector in the world was the father of our present sovereign, the late King Edward VII, who was born the year following the appearance of the first stamp. It seems that the Comptroller of the Queen's Household had, merely as a matter of form, pasted in a small memorandum book a copy of the 1d. black and the 2d. blue, to which he later added other stamps as they ap-

LEAP YEAR BRIDE Laura Lou BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY.

Cherry Dixon, pretty 10-year-old daughter of wealthy parents, falls in love with Dan Phillips, newspaper reporter. She quarrels with her father about Dan, leaves home and, taking advantage of Leap Year, asks Dan.

They are married and for the first time Cherry finds what it means to lack money. Her struggles with housework are discouraging. Dan, a sharp-minded critic of the News, is friendly with Cherry. She meets handsome Max Pearson who also works on the News.

Cherry receives a letter from her mother enclosing a check for $200. She returns the check because pride will not let her take it. Dan, worried about bills, undertakes to write a short story but becomes disheartened and does not finish it.

Two days later Cherry learns her mother is critically ill. She goes home and at her mother's bedside the father and daughter are reconciled. Late at night the nurse summons Cherry to Mrs. Dixon's room.

CHAPTER XXVII

The single lamp was still burning in the big room. Cherry had gone to bed beside her. She was clutching a robe about her. "I'm hero, Mother," she said eagerly. "You wanted me?"

The woman on the pillow raised her eyes. They were brown eyes, much like Cherry's. They looked dark now against the pale face. "My—little-girl," Mrs. Dixon said gently. "Cherry—come here beside me."

The girl knelt at the side of the bed. "What is it, Mother?" she asked. "I'll do anything."

The sick woman smiled. She raised one slim hand to touch the girl's hair. "Cherry," she went on slowly, "I'm so glad you've come back. You mustn't—misjudge your father, dear. I want to know—what you're going to be—friends."

"Of course I don't misjudge him, Mother. I know how he feels. But everything's going to be all right now. He said so."

For an instant happiness seemed to light the pallid cheeks. "He said—that?" she repeated. "Oh, I'm so glad!"

The words seemed to take the woman's last bit of strength. Her eyes closed almost instantly in sleep. She had been clinging to Cherry's hand but now the fingers loosened. The rise and fall of her breathing came regularly.

Cherry knelt there for a long while. Mrs. Dixon slept as peacefully as a child. Presently the nurse put a hand on the girl's arm and motioned for her to rise. Cherry realized for the first time that she was shivering. The night air had grown colder and her dressing gown had slipped down from her shoulder.

She went down the corridor to her own room and got into bed. Within five minutes she was asleep. Despite Dr. Knowles' cheerful predictions three days passed before he gave the definite word that Mrs. Dixon had passed the crisis in her illness.

"Little by little her strength returned. There were times during those three days when the doctor's calls stretched out over several hours. There were times of anxiety for everyone in the household. Walter Dixon did not go to his office. He remained in his own room or downstairs in the study. Cherry and her father met for meals that were almost silent, the food set before them and taken away scarcely tasted. Father and daughter waited nervously outside the door of the upstairs bedroom for the brief bulletins the nurse could bring.

Each day Cherry telephoned to Dan. She stayed on at her parents' home, making one hasty trip to the apartment for clothing. Pinky, the kitten, had been quartered upstairs with Dixie Shannon. The world seemed to have stopped in its regular orbit. Everything centred about the battle being waged in that upstairs bedroom.

Then on the morning of the fourth day Dr. Knowles greeted the father and daughter with a cheerful smile. "If this improvement continues," he announced, "Mrs. Dixon is going to be

They will arrive in Kobe on the 20th and should reach Hongkong about September 2nd. The homeward mail is forwarded by the Northern route from Vladivostock but no such interruption has occurred. This route however gives a weekly instead of the normal bi-weekly service and the time of transit is several days longer.

WAR CLOUDS

If Count Uchida really believed that his recent declaration of Japan's intentions in Manchuria would, as he averred, remove the causes of Sino-Japanese friction, he must by this time be completely disillusioned. The speech has been received with indignation in Chinese circles, and it is now foreseen that Japanese recognition of the new State will be followed by the ordering of a punitive expedition by the Chinese Government against Manchukuo. Such a development would mean a big upheaval and virtually place China and Japan at war one with another. It might lead to even graver consequences, possibilities of which could not but be viewed with the utmost concern.

Meanwhile, the signs of growing Sino-Japanese hostility are apparent on all hands, notably in Shanghai, where the situation would appear to be drifting into dangerous channels. The intensive form which the boycott movement is assuming, coupled with terroristic activities on the part of organisations seeking to prevent the sale of Japanese goods, is quite naturally causing offence to the Japanese, whilst, on the other hand, the evidence of Japanese preparations for the possible use of force is also an aggravating factor in an already highly-charged situation. There are, of course, charges and counter-charges, all tending to obscure the position, but there can be no doubt that underlying everything is mutual distrust, if not hatred. It will be surprising if, in such an atmosphere, there is not another flare-up in the near future. Unfortunately, neither side appears disposed to attempt methods of pacification aiming at the creation of a calmer atmosphere. Thus the tension grows day by day, with the ever-present danger of a recrudescence of the clash witnessed in the early part of the year. That trouble, local though it was in character, was a reaction from Japan's policies in Manchuria, and the point to be kept in mind is that these policies, so far from having been modified, have become intensified, thus naturally heightening Chinese feelings. The Japanese attitude in regard to Manchuria is the more regrettable from the fact that, on the eve of the appearance of the Lytton Report, a document which will present an unabashed study of the situation, the Tokyo Government sees fit to compromise the position by deciding on early recognition of the new State. Indeed, Count Uchida's recent declaration of policy, ill-timed as it was, can be construed as something in the nature of an affront both to the League of Nations and its Commissioners.

Looking at the situation broadly, we cannot but regret, in common with all who have the interests of peace at heart, that the position wears such a gloomy aspect as it does. All right-thinking people will agree that disputes such as those which have arisen between China and Japan should be capable of solution by pacific methods; indeed, the whole trend of international contact in recent years has been in the direction of creating machinery towards this end, of which the League of Nations and the Anti-War Pact, together with the Nine-Power Treaty in specific reference to China, are outstanding illustrations. But Japan's attitude, in evincing a disposition to ignore all that these agencies imply, has been far from helpful. China may not be free from all blame, but the provocation she has received is beyond question. It remains to be seen how the Powers will react to any developments which threaten the peace of the Far East. The responsibility which weighs upon them in this crisis is indeed grave. Let us hope that it will be discharged in a manner helpful towards a wise and lasting adjustment of the issues.

Listening Through Your Hat

With a radio set in his helmet there will be times when the London "hobby" will be quite ready to admit he has "a bee in his bonnet." A news dispatch announces that a group of London police are to be equipped with miniature sets which will enable the man beneath it to hear whatever may be received on the wavelength to which it is attuned. The chief value lies in the facility with which central stations may get in touch with the men on patrol in cases of emergency. No earphones are used in this new equipment. In fact, the policeman gets no more of a signal than the message sent out by his superior. His nose does not even light up nor a whistle blow. But radio receivers do funny things sometimes and the London "hobby" who gets too close to some of the electrical contrivances on his beat may get impressions of more than one "bee in his bonnet" if a hum of the proper dimensions falls into step with his wavelength. But this radio-in-your-hat idea may be popularized, says the Christian Science Monitor. The appeal of listening to the Crispy Cruller Crooners, the Bedtime Bugaboos and the Singing Syncopators may be great enough to prompt a general demand for hat sets for street use. Undoubtedly it would be a great pleasure to saunter through the park to the tune of "When the Merry Moonbeams Mobilize in May," or rest a while by the riverside while Sidney Softus sobbingly sang the stirring strains of "Suddy Soap for Soapy Suds."

A belated issue of the London Times, delayed owing to the holding up of the Siberian mail, gives a full report of the wedding of Dr. G. A. C. Herklots and Miss Iris Walter, which took place in St. Peter's, Eaton Square, on July 21, as reported in this paper at the time. There was a large and fashionable gathering, and the feature was the number of Hongkong people who were present. The many bridesmaids lent an additional charm to the proceedings. Among those present at the ceremony were Sir William and Lady Peel, Mrs. C. G. Mackie, Mrs. R. M. Dyer, Mrs. H. P. W. Hudson, Mrs. Oakes and Miss M. Oakes, Major and Mrs. Gordon Home, Mr. G. W. A. Tufton, Mr. A. H. Crook, Professor Robertson and Mrs. Robertson, Professor Shellabear, Professor Digby, and Professor Middleton Smith, all of Hongkong University, and Canon H. G. Herklots, of Winnipeg (brother of the bridegroom) and Mrs. Herklots. The best-man was Mr. Soamo Jenyns, now of the British Museum, and formerly of the Hongkong Civil Service.

DAY BY DAY

INCOME-TAX IS A GOOD TAX, FOR EVERYONE GRUMBLERS AT IT, WHICH SHOWS THAT EVERYONE PAYS IT.—Napoleon.

Owing to unforeseen circumstances the concert arranged by the China Light and Power Recreation Club for next Saturday has had to be cancelled.

Another 34 sacks of Siberian mail are due to arrive in the Colony tomorrow on the ss. Yasukuni Maru, according to an announcement made by the Postal Authorities.

During demolition work on the Kwong Tung Rubber Factory, of Num Cheung Street, a coolie, Wan Kam-yan, aged 46, fell from the first floor and sustained injuries to his legs. He was later removed to the Kwong Wah Hospital.

The death occurred in Hongkong yesterday of the octogenarian grandmother of Cheng Kwoy-yau, who was recently convicted by a special jury on a charge of procuring the murder of George Fung, and whose case is now being argued before the Full Court.

After partaking of some Chinese medicinal drink, Li Kum, aged 21, and his wife, Chan Cho-mui, aged 23, of 431, Shanghai Street were both removed to the Kwong Wah Hospital last night suffering from the effects of poisoning. It is stated that their condition may be serious.

Eight cases of cholera, two from Victoria and six from Kowloon, with six deaths, were reported last week. There was only one case on Monday. Three cases of typhoid with four deaths, and one case of meningitis with one death, were also notified during last week. Deaths from pulmonary tuberculosis totalled 48.

The fortnightly meeting of the Sanitary Board was held yesterday in the Board Room, the business transacted being purely formal. Mr. G. Sawyer, the President, was in the chair, and the others present were the Hon. Mr. R. M. Henderson (Vice-President), Dr. G. W. Pope, M.O.H., Mr. Wong Kwong-tin, Mr. L. C. E. Bellamy, Dr. Li Shu-fan, Mr. C. Champkin, Mr. J. H. Gelling, secretary, and Mr. Ng Mui-kai, assistant-secretary.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Lost Letters.

[To the Editor, Hongkong Telegraph.]

Sir,—As a resident in Hongkong with relatives in Macao I am in the habit of sending letters and newspapers through the post to the latter port very frequently and since a few months ago I have noted with surprise that a considerable amount of correspondence failed to reach its destination. I do not know whether this experience is unique in my regard but certainly it is obviously a very serious matter that losses like this should take place so often. Without exaggeration I may say that two out of ten letters or papers disappear in transit.

Since the above occurrences I send all letters by registered mail. I have lived in many other ports but never experienced the like before. In order to safeguard the rights of the people who utilize the post, I feel that thorough investigation of this matter is necessary. I am not aware of having ever lost any correspondence between Hongkong and other cities; it is only between here and Macao that such losses have taken place.—Yours, etc., JOHN S. H. WANN.

Background of the Socialist State in Chile

By PAUL VANORDEN SHAW,

came to awaken a dispirited people, accustomed to slowly and grudgingly given reforms, to the conviction that social justice was actually attainable.

The colonial superstructure which had been giving away but gradually, groaned with the pressure of these rapid changes. The foundations of the nation were rocked and society was uprooted when the economic debacle of 1930 laid low the remaining props of the two old regimes, the colonial and the republican.

While this internal trend was unfolding itself another grew. It is too common a phenomenon to need elaboration. Always a proud and patriotic people, the nationalism of the Chileans was fanned into a flame by the successful War of the Pacific (1879-1883), and from that time it has been swelling until it is as high and strong as the very Chilean Andes themselves.

These then are the political trends.

A Spanish padre gazed out on his garden one morning and lo! some of his plants were higher than the others. He had brought from the Andes deserts some barren soil and thrown it into a corner until he could discover the nature of the peculiar properties it exhibited when fire was brought near it. And it had fertilized the soil where it lay. He had discovered nitrate of soda! Two hundred years later, in 1818, an Englishman opened the first nitrate of soda plant. Twenty-two years later the first foreign shipment went on its way and from that day until the World War Chile maintained undisputed and exclusive control over the markets of a product that brought her revenues, wealth and prosperity. Nitrate took its place beside copper and nitrates, whose histories need not be repeated here, were the apparently inexhaustible but almost sole source of wealth of a hard-working and orderly people.

All Chile's eggs were in one basket. Hard-pressed peoples needed a substitute for the padre's discovery. Germans developed synthetic nitrates and the basket fell with a crash. The monopoly and the spell were broken. While frantic efforts were being made to save a tragic situation, another calamity attacked the Chilean economic structure. Copper prices fell, all prices fell. Great loans had been floated in the world's new credit centre and the payments on their services came with annoying and deadening regularity. The fountain of credit not only dried up, but everything else, and Chile found herself for the first time in her history obliged to default on her bonded indebtedness.

Hope came again for a brief moment when Cosach, the Compania Salitrera Chilena, or the Chilean Nitrate Company, was formed. All the nitrate interests of Chileans and of North Americans and Britishers in Chile entered into partnership with the Chilean Government to save the day. The arrangements are technical and to describe them would serve no purpose. Nor, as it serves any purpose to determine whether the opposition of the Chileans to this combine is valid in fact. For, almost as soon as the terms of its charter were known a nationalist clamor arose against the executive "who had sold Chile to North American capitalists." Whether this was the case or not, perhaps a majority of the Chileans believed that it was true.

Cosach served as much as anything else to cause Chileans to examine their own national resources, their industries and their productive processes. Many had never realized how much foreign capital was invested in their land, how many industries were controlled by North American and European capitalists. And in a period when North Americans were taking their own bankers to task and laying at their doors the blame for a world cataclysm, ignorant Chileans, and well-educated ones, too, for that matter, can hardly be blamed for seeking to shift much of the responsibility for their woes on Uncle Sam's children, Uncle Shylock to them.

Despair and destitution seemed to face the Chilean people. Government after government, solution after solution, failed.

A trend of a century in the direction of political and social justice; many decades of an intense nationalism recently inflamed by flagrant saturation with unreasoning fear, hatred and suspicion of foreign capitalists; and an economic collapse that came later than it did in other lands, but with a suddenness and completeness that would have annihilated a less hardy people, have led them, now fully aware of their rights, awake to newer possibilities, and but recently so tantalizing. (Continued on Page 9.)

GEHRIG CONTINUES BIG HITTING SEQUENCE

TWO HOME RUNS IN EIGHT GAME AGAINST CHICAGO

New York, Aug. 30. The Cubs continue their winning streak in the National League and it becomes increasingly certain that they will provide the opposition to the Yankees in the World Series. To-day they defeated the Giants 4-3, Cuyler (Cubs) and Ott (Giants) hitting for the circuit.

Pittsburgh have returned to something more akin to their real form and passed on two defeats to the Braves, for whom Schulmerich hit a home run vainly.

Brooklyn, badly outhit by St. Louis, thumped the ball hard when they did hit, home runs by Cuello and Taylor giving them a sensational victory.

The Yankees had a somewhat similar experience against Chicago. The latter's pitcher sent up very few lone balls, but those came at the wrong moment with the result that Lou Gehrig twice found the bleachers and Lazzeri also hit a fourmaster. New York won 6-5. Kress's home run for the losers was not quite good enough.

Fox, Gehringen and Goslin hit home runs for their respective teams.

JURY'S MIND BLURRED

evidence) and if they believed both, were they satisfied that the accused was guilty?

LEFT IN AIR.

Counsel complained that the Tsui evidence was hardly dealt with at all. There were general references to the inconsistencies, wavering and probable untruthfulness of his evidence, but the evidence itself was left entirely in the air.

Referring to the Zimmerman-Christie evidence, he said the trial Judge had failed to give them assistance by which they could properly weigh and adjudicate this evidence.

The Chief Justice:—The summing-up was immediately after the argument of leading counsel for the defence, which dealt with many points of great importance.

Mr. Jenkins said the law was clear on this point—that the onus is on the Judge to sift the evidence for the jury. He contended that the conviction should be quashed.

CROWN REPLY.

Mr. H. G. Sheldon, leading counsel for the Crown said that he would dispute the defence's claim that this was a complicated case. He admitted that the hearing was long, but contended, in spite of that, it was an ordinary criminal case.

He submitted that no principles were involved. Evidence of the class objected to had been admitted time and again.

"The only reason for this long and learned argument," he said, "is that the prisoner has the advantage of the learning, ingenuity and forensic eloquence of my friends."

Mr. Sheldon's argument that the evidence of Zimmerman and Christie was admissible was supported by what he termed "concrete cases."

The argument is proceeding.

SWISS PEACE

CELEBRATIONS RECENTLY

Interlaken, Aug. 1. Gayly coloured banners, happy women and children garbed in bright peasant costumes, cheery folk songs and dances and fireworks remind one here that Switzerland today is commemorating the six hundred and forty-first year since the signing of the Ewiger Bund or perpetual pact which was the foundation of the Swiss Confederation.

This pact, which was signed by the men of the three forest cantons of Uri, Schwyz and Unterwalden, was intended as a self-defence against all who should molest or

SOCIALISM IN OUR TIME

ILP. BREAK WITH OFFICIAL LABOUR

London, Aug. 2.

The ancient division in the councils of the Labour Party came to a head this weekend when the Independent Labour Party which forms the Left Wing Split from the main body and itself split into two in consequence.

The breach consummates the process of disintegration which has been going on for a considerable time. The Independent Labour Party as the exponent of the theory "Socialism in our time" used to be the most influential section of the Labour Party. But it was too revolutionary for the more conservative trade unionists who made up the rank and file of Labour Party supporters. Among its former leaders were men like Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and Mr. Philip Snowden, now Viscount Snowden. Both these, however, severed their connexions with the I.L.P. some time ago.

Present I. L. P. representatives in Parliament number only five, and during the recent session they were at least as critical of their right wing colleagues as of the Government. Consequently their departure is regarded by the main body of the Labour Party with relief rather than dismay.

The vote at Bradford showed 241 for secession and 142 against. But the minority claims its strength in the country as approximately half of the total membership. It includes men like Mr. E. F. Wise, former member of Parliament and ex-civil servant, who gave up a government post to become head of the London branch of Centrosoyuz, the Soviet co-operative organization.

Mr. Wise in his letter of resignation from the I. L. P. Sunday said: "The secession from the Labour Party when it is more socialist in outlook, intention and opportunity than at any time in its history seems to me, an act of both treachery to the labour movement and of suicide for the I. L. P. It is because I prefer to be an active Socialist rather than disgruntled disruptionist that I shall continue to work in the Labour Party as the only organization which, whatever its imperfections, has any present chance of achieving Socialism in our time."

MAMAK TOURNAMENT.

TOTAL ENTRY NUMBERS TWENTY-SIX TEAMS

The Mamak Hockey Tournament promises to be one of the biggest events of the sports season this year, as no fewer than 26 teams have entered—easily a record for a local league.

The number of entries threatened to make the event unmanageable, in fact, and no further teams could be admitted. The notable exceptions are the Hongkong Hockey Club, who again have not entered the tournament, and the Y.M.C.A. The South Wales Borderers are also not in the list of entrants, as it is understood they have so many inter-battalion and other friendlies to play off that they would not find time to engage in the Mamak competition.

The Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders are also absentees from the list, but they will shortly be leaving Hongkong, and in any case could not play off their fixtures. A large number of teams from the other military units, and from the Navy, however, have entered, and make quite an imposing list. The teams for this season's Mamak competition are as follows:

Royal Engineers, Radio Sports Club, Royal Signals, 12th Bty. R.A., 20th Bty. R.A., 24th Bty. R.A., H.M.S. Partisan, H.K. University, the Incognito, R.A.M.C., H.K. Police, H.M.S. Turner, R.A.S.C., St. Andrew's Club, H.M.S. Wishart, H.M.S. Veteran, R.A.O.C., German Club, Kowloon Indian T.C., H.M.S. Kent, H.M.S. Medway (two teams), H.M.S. Herald, Fourth Submarine Flotilla, Eighth Destroyer Flotilla, and H.M.S. Phoenix.

Any person who is qualified and is desirous of officiating in the matches of the Mamak Tournament as a referee, is requested to communicate as early as possible with the Hon. Secy., Mr. E. V. Marshall, whose address is 14, Lock Road (1st floor), Winglock Building, Kowloon.

It will interest entrants to know that a handbook is being prepared which will shortly be on sale at Minak and Co., for 35 cents, in which the full list of officials of the tournament, the teams and their secretaries, the list of referees, and the rules and regulations governing the competition, as well as a photograph of the trophy, will be included.

attack them, to safeguard a system of local self-government, as opposed to the officials set up by the Hansburgs, and to gain and uphold their independence. It united them into an indissoluble community and secured their democratic independence by the victory which they obtained over Leopold of Austria and his knights in 1315. They have held their own from that time to the present first as free members of the empire and then as an entirely independent confederation.

CRICKET CENTURIES

SUTCLIFFE GETS ANOTHER

"TEST" BOWLERS IN FORM

SUSSEX RECORD GONE

London, Aug. 30. THE county cricket season of 1932 is rapidly waning, but it is not passing without a final "kick", and in the final matches during the past three days, batsmen and bowlers got busy proving how well they could play.

Eight centuries resulted from this industrious effort, whilst the bowlers, not to be entirely eclipsed, played a fair part in this "brighter cricket" movement, Goddard taking 14 wickets in one match and White and Mitchell (the "Test" nominees) bagging a dozen each.

A Sussex record went by the board when Yorkshire, the champions, visited Hove and inflicted upon the southerners their first defeat of the season.

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP.

Surrey (356 & 294-5 dec.) beat Middlesex (206 & 215) by 229 runs at Lord's. Somerset (113) beat Warwick (181 & 169) by an innings and 63 runs at Taunton. Lancashire (295 & 192-8) beat Notts (263) on 1st innings at Manchester. Gloucester (345 & 95-5) beat Hampshire (305 & 220-9 dec.) on 1st innings at Gloucester. Yorkshire (258 & 225-3 dec.) beat Sussex (166 & 150) by 167 runs at Hove. Derbyshire (251 & 103) beat Leicester (116 & 202) by 36 runs at Ashby-de-la-Zouche.

LONDON "DERBY"

KEEN BAT AND BALL DUELS

Another splendid all-round performance by F. R. Brown the Surrey amateur and Test player marked the local "Derby" between Middlesex and Surrey at Lord's, and he played the most important part on the defeat of the home side by 229 runs.

Contributing 135 to Surrey's first innings score of 356, he went on to help dismiss Middlesex for 206 in their reply, taking 6 for 63.

Hobbs came along with a typical second innings century, hitting up 111 out of 294 for 5 declared, and Gover did the rest for Surrey taking 6 for 65 and accounting for Middlesex for a mere 215.

Centuries by R. A. Ingle (108) and Burrough (119) placed Somerset on the high road to a big score which eventually reached 413. To this Warwick had no reply, J. C. White tying the batsmen up in knots in both innings. His 6 for 60 dismissed them for 181 at the first attempt, and he surpassed this in the follow-on, capturing 6 for 46.

By taking first innings points from Notts, Lancashire did Kent a good turn, allowing them to finish third in the table. The match was very inconclusive. Tyldesley (106) played a prominent part in Lancashire's initial score of 295, and Notts only just failed to reach this, being all out for 283.

Goddard, with 14 wickets for 198 runs dominated the match between Gloucester and Hamp-

MALAYAN ATHLETIC MEETING

New Hurdles Record

CULLEN WINS THE CHAMPIONSHIP

Kuala Lumpur, Aug. 30. The Malayan A.A.A. Championship meeting ended to-day before a crowd which numbered approximately 5,000. Among those present were H. H. the Sultan of Selangor, the Chief Secretary and Mrs. Caldecott, the General Officer Commanding (Major General L. C. L. Oldfield), Sir John and Lady Scott, the Hon. Mr. T. S. Adams and the Hon. Mr. Savage Bailey.

A tie resulted in the high jump Ramachandran and E. H. Tredgold (Singapore) clearing 5 ft. 8½ in. Read was unable to repeat his performance at the Garrison Sports when he beat the Malayan record and had to be content with third place.

A NEW RECORD.

A new record was set up by Eu Eng Hock in the hurdles with 16 1-5 sec.

The change in the distances for the relay race over a mile created some dissatisfaction. It was originally decided that the relay should consist of four runs of 410 yards, but a meeting on Saturday morning decided to change it to four runs of 880 yards, 220 yards and 440 yards. The reason for the change was not disclosed but nevertheless the race proved exceptionally interesting, and resulted in a win for the Military, there being a splendid finish over the last lap between Cullen and the military representative.

The individual championship was won by L. D. E. Cullen (F.M.S. Police) with 8½ points. He won the 220 yards and 440 yards and dead-heated in the 100 yards. He was joint champion two years ago with Yeo Bok Choon. Vythilingham, with a win in the half mile and second in the quarter, was runner-up with five points.

The team championship was retained by Selangor with 17 points, the F.M.S. Police being second with 15½ points. Others were: Military, 8 points; Penang 6½ points; Perak 6½ points; Singashire in which the former took first innings points.

Sussex failed lamentably against Yorkshire and not only lost the match but the proud record of being undefeated. Sutcliffe added another three-figure innings to his season's aggregate, Leyland contributed 93, Verity took 6 for 48 and Bowes 8 for 62.

Against this the only Sussex effort of note was the bowling of Tate who captured 6 for 79.—Reuter.

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES.

What is probably the most impressive cast ever assembled for a talking picture will be seen at the Queen's Theatre tomorrow in "Mata Hari," co-starring Gretta Garbo and Ramon Novarro. Not content with placing two of the screen's greatest drawing cards in the leading roles of this remarkable production, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer assigned prominent supporting parts to Lionel Barrymore, who recently won the Academy award for the finest masculine performance of 1931; Lewis Stone, C. Henry Gordon, Karen Morley, Alec B. Francis, Blanche Frederici, Edmund Breese, Helen Jerome Eddy and Frank Reicher. The direction of the picture was entrusted to George Fitzmaurice, who achieved such fine results with "Strangers May Kiss."

The story of "Mata Hari" is based on the life of the notorious dancer whose intrigues as a spy during the World War resulted in her execution by a French firing squad. This famous woman was well known for her love affairs as for her espionage manoeuvres and it is on this aspect of her life that the plot of the picture is centred. Garbo, of course, plays the dancer, while Novarro is seen as a young Russian flyer whom she betrays.

Both Garbo, who created a sensation in "Susan Lenox," and Novarro, whose last film was the romantic "Son of India," are said to have the most dramatic and effective roles of their respective screen careers, while the love scenes are said to outdo even the famous Garbo-Gilbert "sizzlers" of silent screen days.

Report is every effort was made by the M-G-M officials to give this production the background warranted by its exceptional story and cast with the result that the picture is said to have the most artistic and the most brilliant photographic effects ever achieved by this company in any of its talking films. This applies also to Miss Garbo's gowns, which are believed to set a new note for the extreme in ultra-modernism.

"Corsair" at the Central.

A star of Roland West's screen adaptation of the Walton Green novel, "Corsair," which comes to the Central Theatre tomorrow, Chester Morris is called upon to face a problem. It is often said that All-American football heroes end up with bond salesmen. The Chester Morris of United Artists picture, "Corsair," is no exception.

Many All-Americans are faced with the choice between poverty and marrying a millionaire's daughter. Chester Morris is confronted with that choice, too. But the hero of "Corsair" refuses to play the game that way. He refuses to play that game as Wall Street plays it. He wants a million dollars, but he wants it on his own terms.

Walton Green, former leader of the secret service division of the Prohibiting Enforcement, has shown in his book how rum runners who prey on the public's weakness for defying the law, are in turn played upon by the pirates. When the Wall Street magnate who is secretly financing a bootleg syndicate, discharges him as a bond salesman, Chester Morris turns pirate and preys on rum fleets for revenge.

Those who recall "Alibi," "The Big House" and other tense dramas, will realize how realistically Chester Morris can pursue the avenging theme. This story of a football hero who leads one life in high society and another on the high seas is a new one both for Morris and for the film screen.

Roland West, who introduced Morris to the screen in "Alibi," also produced "Corsair," and directed it in association with tion with Rolfe Lloyd and Robert Ross. In the supporting cast are Alison Loyd, Emmett Corrigan, Fred Kohler, William Austin, Mayo Methot, Ned Sparks, Frank Rice, Frank McHugh, Gay Sonbrook and Addie McPhail.

"Lovers Courageous".

What kind of a girl is Madge Evans, the screen's newest feminine sensation, who plays opposite Robert Montgomery in "Lovers Courageous," now showing at the Queen's Theatre? The following reveals Miss Evans in intimate detail of biography and personality:—A budding orchid, beautiful in immaturity. Crisp and fresh. Not too bubbling. Delightfully responsive. Almost red hair. Blue eyes. Skin of satiny texture. Looks better without make-up. Never wears a hat. Hails from New York. Slim. Shapely. Just 116 pounds of gorgessness. Delicous diction. In many ways like Norma Shearer. That straight-in-the-eye manner of talking. Brittle words. Wholenessomeness. Charming frankness.

Robert Z. Leonard directed "Lovers Courageous" in which Miss Evans is Montgomery's leading lady. It was screened from an original story penned by Frederick Lonsdale, noted British playwright. Included in the cast are Roland Young, Frederick Kerr, Reginald Owen and Beryl Mercer.

"After Tomorrow".

Dropping the rose-coloured lenses from its cameras and turning the searchlight of reality and humanness upon that too often glorified theme, "mother love," Hollywood has turned out a picture that will rank with the year's best in "After Tomorrow," the Fox drama which is now showing at the King's Theatre.

Stripped of all sentimentality and clothed only in stark realism, it presents not one mother but two, of the type that really exists, even though you may never have met up with her—selfish, pleasure seeking, self-ambitious, and willing to defray and wreck the romance of their own children in the interests of their own affairs of heart.

Charles Farrell in the leading role gives a performance that exceeds anything he has done in many a day, and that ranks with his memorable "Chico" in "7th Heaven." Opposite him plays Marian Nixon, but a different Marian Nixon than you have ever seen before. Her wistfulness reminds one of Janet Gaynor, and Director Borzage has succeeded in capturing the last spark of talent of this delightful and diminutive dark-eyed and brown-haired girl, just as he did with Sally Eilers when he directed her in the title role of "Bad Girl."

The picture derives its title from the optimistic thought of Farrell and Miss Nixon that they will be married "After Tomorrow." It was adapted for the screen by Sonya Levien from the stage success of John Golden and Hugh Stange.

"No One Man"

Taking characters from real life in a certain way of putting realism into a screen story. This, according to William Anthony McGuire, noted playwright and screen dramatist, accounts for much of the discussion that has arisen over the gripping story of "Disorderly Conduct," the Fox film sensation coming to the King's Theatre next Sunday with Sally Eilers, Spencer Tracy and El Brendel in the leading roles.

Practically the entire plot of the picture is based on actual happenings," McGuire said recently. "The hero was an intimate friend of mine—a speed-cop who got into trouble with his superiors for refusing to play favourites. Just as I have portrayed him in the picture, he was portrayed when he was arrested—the daughter of a notorious politician, and this soured him completely. Realizing that under the circumstances a man was foolish to try to enforce the law without fear or favour, he went to the opposite extreme. I have tried TOKYO, Aug. 30. The Indian Government's decision to raise the tariff on non-British cotton piece-goods has caused a surprise and alarm, as the tariff is higher and earlier than anticipated.

Coupled with the suspension of Chinese trade, it is feared that Japanese exports will be seriously affected, especially the lower grade cotton goods.—Reuter's Special.

"It was wrong of me, but, oh, Mother, I've paid for it!"

"But you love your husband, don't you?"

"Of course I do. But I should have made Father understand. I shouldn't have lost my temper."

"We can't undo the past," Mrs. Dixon said quietly. "It's the future we must think about. Your father and I agree that if you love this young man you should go back to your home. That's your duty now, Cherry."

"And I can come to see you? And you'll come to see me?"

"I hope you'll come. Yes, when I'm able I'll come to see you. I'm anxious to know your Dan."

Cherry departed that afternoon. She telephoned Dan and agreed to meet him at 5:30. Martin drove her down town in the big car. It was arranged that he was to call for Cherry each afternoon and take her to her parents' home for an hour or two.

Cherry leaned back against the thick upholstery and smiled as the limousine rolled along. She was tired yet very happy. The past week had been a tremendous strain but out of so much suffering the world seemed to be righting itself. Her mother was on the road to recovery. Her father for the first time seemed to have lost his aloof, intimidating pose. Walter Dixon had found something he could not bulldoze and terrify—life. Both of her parents were at last reconciled to her marriage.

"Poor Dan!" the girl thought. "I wonder how he's been managing about meals and clean shirts and if he's been at work on time. The apartment must be a sight."

A glow of warm tenderness, of eagerness enveloped her. For days Cherry's thoughts had been selfless, concerned only with others. She felt suddenly a great need for Dan's strength and love.

It was the same road over which she had travelled a week before when Martin's driving had seemed so slow. Now, for exactly opposite reasons, the car seemed to be lagging.

Cherry snapped open her purse and drew out a vanity case. She surveyed herself in the mirror, added another touch of lipstick and then rubbed away most of it. She was wishing that she had started earlier and had time to stop at Louise's shop for a facial treatment. Cherry had never had such a treatment but Dixie Shannon had assured her they were marvelous for removing tired lines.

Suddenly Cherry smiled again. Facial treatments—the idea! She must remember that she was a poor man's wife now. No more breakfasts served to her in bed. No more turning to Sarah or Martha for everything she wanted done.

"And I'm glad of it!" Cherry told herself earnestly. "It's going to be good to be home. Oh it's going to be wonderful!"

She thought that she meant it.

Martin let her out of the car before the library steps. It was the place where Cherry and Dan had met so often in the days when they were living at the hotel. The chauffeur closed the door after her, touched his cap and drove away.

Dan was nowhere in sight but Cherry was not disturbed. She had learned to expect him to be late. A boy in knee trousers was selling flowers from basket farther down the street. Cherry strolled toward him, selected a rose to fasten to her blouse and gave him a quarter for it.

"Here's your change, lady," the boy began as Cherry moved away. She smiled, told him to keep the

FOR DISOBEDIENCE SIGNALS AT GARDEN ROAD

A summons brought against a public car driver at the instigation of Mr. D. M. Goodall was concluded before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday, after a lengthy hearing, it being alleged that the defendant disobeyed the signals of a police officer at the junction of Garden Road and Queen's Road.

Evidence was given by Mr. Goodall to the effect that he was driving down Garden Road and had to stop suddenly to avoid collision with the defendant's car, which was travelling along Queen's Road from the direction of Wan-chai. The defendant had the signal against him, but he passed two cars which had stopped and drove in front of Mr. Goodall.

After evidence for the prosecution and the defence had been taken, his Worship imposed a fine of $56.

"If he doesn't come in five minutes," she decided, "I'd better call the office. Of course if anything's happened he knows he hasn't any way to reach me."

Deliberately Cherry turned her back on the clock. She watched the boy with the flowers sell a bouquet to a slim, stoop-shouldered man with white hair. No other customers came to buy. The boy looked up and down the street and then moved away.

Cherry swung around. No, Dan was not in sight yet. Then she saw him. He was crossing the street, coming toward her and at his side was a girl in white. She wore a white hat and white shoes. Her head was thrown back and she was looking up at Dan and laughing.

Jalousy, white hot and scorching, flamed up in Cherry's heart. Who was this girl and what right had she to be laughing like that and swinging along beside Dan?

With sudden and unreasoning anger Cherry resented this other girl.

SAVING THE LAKE DISTRICT

NATIONAL PARK PROPOSALS

The preservation of the English Lake District as a national park is recommended in the Cumbrian Regional Report, recently issued.

The district, famed for its natural beauty—which has inspired a whole school of English poets—will be acquired from its owners, who will be paid from national funds, if plans proposed by the commission are carried out.

Calling modern town planning to the rescue of England's natural beauty of landscape, the authorities of Cumberland and the West Ward of Westmorland, including the famous Lakeland area, recently commissioned a plan for the preservation and proper development of these districts.

After three years of investigation the Cumbrian Regional Report evolved by Prof. Patrick Abercrombie and Mr. S. A. Kelly is ready to be acted upon.

New buildings will only be allowed on the fells if necessary to farming and to any mineral working which might be permitted. This restriction will not apply to dalesheads where, states the report, it is possible to knock away any buildings here and there in such a way as to render them entirely unobtrusive. Domestic buildings will thus be allowed a density of one house to 25 acres, or more thickly according to position. Special permission will be required for the building of a hotel or shop.

The report indicates that owing to the development of motor traffic the necessity is not likely to arise for the extension of railway lines in the Lakeland area. But in its opinion motor traffic should by no means be lavishly encouraged. To have every remote recess rendered easily accessible by car would destroy much of the beauty for pedestrians, the report states. It therefore suggests drastic restrictions under the 1930 Road Traffic Act.

Moreover, in the construction of roads the report recommends that normal standards of width and curving be sacrificed for the sake of the landscape, and local stone and grass banks used instead of concrete curbing.

CRASH PENDING IN BALKANS

FAILURE OF THE DICTATORSHIP IN YOGO-SLAVIA

Practically all observers in direct contact with conditions in Yugoslavia are agreed that nothing less than the complete abolition of the present dictatorship of the state will bring tranquillity and stability to that country and prevent serious disorders on a large scale.

It is no exaggeration to assert that at present nearly all of the social forces in the kingdom are at war with King Alexander and his Government. Not only does the King not enjoy the support of any large group, but practically all individuals of first-rate importance decline to serve in his Cabinets. The present Government is widely recognized to be the weakest since establishment of the absolutist regime and contains not a single member in which any large body of the people of Yugoslavia has ever expressed confidence.

Lacking a constructive programme lending toward normal parliamentary Government, the regime seems to have little other function than to enforce order and prevent expressions of mass discontent. It is apparent that the dictatorship is on the defensive, completely absorbed by the problem of how to keep back the rising flood of aggressive antagonism.

Coercive Unification Fails. The dictatorship has failed in its avowed purposes because no racial group in the Kingdom has accepted its fundamental doctrine, namely, that all of the ethnic groups in Yugoslavia constitute but a single undifferentiated nation. Never were local loyalties and regional patriotism so fanatically acute. This attempt at unification through coercion has greatly increased separatism.

In addition, the absolutist regime, which set out to annihilate the force of regional religious organizations, has only resulted in strengthening it. At no time in the recent history of South Slavs has Roman Catholicism been so militant as at present.

Practically all the Croats and Slovens forming nearly half of the people in the Kingdom, have become militant Roman Catholics, since this church offers the channel through which they can express their opposition to absolutism. Clericalism has been intensified, rather than weakened.

For exactly the same reason the Musalmans are showing a new loyalty to their religion. They believe that the regime set out to assimilate or absorb them, so in self-defence they have closed their ranks and raised their flags. In both Turkey and Albania Musalmatism is on the wane, but in Yugoslavia it is showing new vitality.

Old Parties Grow Stronger. Every political party, also, is against the dictatorships. Not a single authoritative party chief gives it his support. The regime set out to eradicate the old parties, but in consequence most of them are stronger than ever before, while the persecuted party chiefs have become national heroes. Although every vestige of a party press has been suppressed there is the closest contact between the party leaders and their followers, even in the remotest villages.

So vehement and uncompromising has the opposition in most parts of the country become that not only has the position of the King been greatly weakened but the very existence of Yugoslavia itself has been jeopardized.

Many of the Croats, Slovenes, Bosnians, Macedonians and Montenegrins would go to any length to do away with the domination of "the Belgrade clique," even if it meant the breaking up of the kingdom, while even the most moderate members of the above-mentioned groups are for a complete and fundamental reorganization of the state on a federative basis.

SOVIET ACTIVITY ON MANCHUKUO BORDERS

NEW SHANGHAI PERIL

JAPANESE RONINS' THREATS

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND

CHINESE CHAMBER WARNED

(Telegraph Special.)

Shanghai, Aug. 31.

Japanese in Shanghai are now threatening to resort to a campaign of counter-terrorism if the boycott activities are not stopped.

This new factor in the Sino-Japanese situation has caused a tremendous sensation and if the threat develops into action, it is difficult to see how far more serious trouble can be avoided.

According to the Chinese news papers, societies to combat the activities of the Chinese "Bloody Associations" are now being organised by the Japanese ronins.

"SCARLET CLOTH SOCIETY"

It is stated that a secret Japanese society, the "Scarlet Cloth Society," has addressed a letter to the chairman of the Hongkong Branch of the Shanghai Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, warning him against carrying on further with anti-Japanese activities and the boycotting of Japanese goods.

"DRASTIC ACTION."

The letter says that already, as a result of the anti-Japanese boycott which is being actively supported by the Chamber, many Japanese merchants have been ruined.

The letter concludes with a warning that the Scarlet Cloth Society will resort to drastic action if the anti-Japanese societies are not suppressed.—Reuter.

London TRAFFIC CRISIS

STRIKE OF BUSMEN LIKELY

London, Aug. 30.

The threat of a serious dislocation of London's transport is contained in the decision of a delegate conference of the busmen to demand that the Executive of the Transport Workers' Union authorise a strike as from September 23rd. This is the date on which the Company's proposed wage reductions operate.

This demand is tantamount to a decision to strike, unless a settlement can be arrived at through further discussions between the men and the Company in the meantime.—Reuter.

SEVENPENCE FOR A VOTE

BRITAIN'S BARGAIN ELECTION

London, Aug. 30.

Last year's general election in Britain was the cheapest on record so far as the cost of each vote was concerned. The total expenses of the candidates according to a White Paper issued to-day amounted to only £654,105.

The preceding election in 1929 which resulted in the return of the Labour Government cost £1,213,507.

Votes polled last year numbered 21,886,878 and cost a little over sevenpence, as compared with 21,886,878 and cost a little over sevenpence, as compared with

RIVER GUNBOATS CONCENTRATE

AIR RECONNAISANCES ALONG SUNGARI

MUCH SPECULATION

(SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH").

HARBIN, AUG. 31.

THE PRECISE SIGNIFICANCE OF FRESH ACTIVITY ON THE MANCHURIAN BORDER BY SOVIET AIR AND NAVAL FORCES IS THE SUBJECT OF SPECULATION IN HARBIN.

According to information from Japanese official sources, the Soviet are concentrating their river-navy in the vicinity of Tunkiang, at the confluence of the Sungari and the Amur Rivers.

The official report states that there are at present some twelve Soviet gunboats, a transport-steamer and two barges at Tunkiang.

At the same time comes a denial of the Manchukuo allegations that the Soviet military command in the north has erected barracks, and has built trenches and entanglements within Manchukuo territory in the vicinity of Manchuli.

It will be recalled that the Manchukuo Government a fortnight ago presented a demand to the Soviet Consul-General in Harbin for the withdrawal of troops and the destruction of the defence works alleged to have been erected by the Soviet troops.

SPY'S REPORT.

It is now suggested that the complaint was based upon information which lacked foundation, being based upon the report of a "spy" who apparently saw the defence works which were erected in 1929 and have never been removed. During the last

TERROR IN MUKDEN

"SHOT ON SIGHT" WARNING

CHAOTIC SITUATION IN THE CITY

SILENT STREETS

Peking, Aug. 13.

Mukden is in a state of complete chaos as a result of the activities of the "Volunteers" who have disorganized the town.

All public utilities have ceased to operate and the services are not likely to be restored for some time, according to Chinese official circles here, who declare that they have received reliable information of the events in Mukden.

The Japanese military are conducting a strenuous campaign in an effort to discover persons concerned in creating the confusion.

Orders have been issued commanding the inhabitants to remain indoors under pain of being shot down without warning.

That such ruthless measures are considered necessary reveals how effective the campaign of the Volunteers has been and suggests that it is "getting on the horses" of the Japanese.—Reuter.

MORE WAR DEBT ECONOMIES

REPAYMENT OF 4½ PER CENT.

£2,000,000 SAVING IN INTEREST

London, Aug. 30.

To-night's London Gazette contains an announcement giving notice to the holders of the 4½% war loan 1925/46 that the loan will be repaid at par on 1st December next, together with the six months' interest due on that date. Interest on the loan will then cease.

Notice is also given to the holders of 4½% Treasury bonds 1932/34, that they will be repaid at par on the same date with the four months' interest due on that date. Interest on the bonds will then cease.

Following the success of the Five Per Cent. War Loan conversion scheme, the announcements were anticipated.

They were in fact foreshadowed in a Treasury statement last night.

OVER £150,000,000

The outstanding amount of the 4½% per cent. stock is £153,222,876, comprising £149,000,000 of the Treasury Bonds and a little over £13,000,000 of War Loan 1925/46, representing the outstanding balance of £90,000,000 issued in 1915.

The date of repayment coincides with the amortisation of the unconverted residue of the 5% War Loan. The cancellation will involve a refunding operation but the form which this will take will not necessarily be made immediately and the newspapers anticipate that the terms on which the Treasury will offer a refunding loan may not be disclosed before the end of September.

A net saving of about £2,000,000 in interest in next year's Budget is expected to be effected by the repayments decided upon.

FINAL AMOUNT IN DOUBT.

The amount which the Treasury will have to find in December as a result of last month's gigantic conversion operation and the present repayment proposals will not be known until after September 30 as the holders of £189,000,000 worth of Five Per Cent. War Loan representing the balance of the original loan which by July 31 had neither been converted nor earmarked for repayment will have the option of asking for repayment by the date.

As the claims for the repayment of this loan by July 31 amounted to £43,000,000, it is certain that with the repayments announced to-day, the Treasury will need at least £201,000,000 on December 1.

LOW INTEREST.

It is quite certain, however, that the Government will be able to borrow at remarkably low rates and will have no difficulty in meeting all its commitments on terms which will represent a large saving.

It is expected that the necessary funds will be raised by short-term borrowing.—Reuter, and British Wireless.

PONY STRUCK BY MOTOR CAR

LEG BROKEN: HAS TO BE DESTROYED

Lieut. H. R. R. Prior, of the Royal Artillery, reported to the police yesterday that a China pony belonging to him was being ridden in Queen's Road, East, opposite Wellington Barracks, by a man who when motor car No. 822 overtaking a tramcar and passed between the pony and the tram.

The car struck the pony and broke its hind leg. The animal was subsequently destroyed at the R.A.C. depot. The pony was a gift from the Queen.

JURY'S MIND BLURRED

CHENG CASE DIRECTION CRITICISED

TO-DAY'S "APPEAL" HEARING

The summing-up of the Chief Justice (Sir Joseph Kemp) in the recent trial of Cheng Kwo-kau for procuring the murder of George Fung was attacked by Mr. F. C. Jenkins, K.C., before the Full Court this morning.

Mr. Jenkins' attack was based on eight points submitted yesterday, which he declared were essential for a fair and correct summing-up.

"The Chief Justice, in the second line of his summing-up, said he was taking the case on broad general lines," said Mr. Jenkins, and he added, "I hope rightly."

Proceeding, he said the trial Judge had confessed he was not following the usual course and had pointed out that the case was an unusual one. "No-one will deny that the case was very lengthy and difficult," said Mr. Jenkins.

MASS OF EVIDENCE.

"We know, too, that there was an exceptional mass of evidence. The evidence of Zimmern and Christie alone occupied 100 pages of the Judge's notes, and the Judge said that their evidence contained difficulties, improbabilities and inconsistencies.

"If there ever was a case in which a mass of evidence should have been sifted, in which there should have been the fullest direction, in which the jury should have been given every assistance in solving the difficulties, this case is one."

"What is the possible state of mind of this jury as regards the evidence of Zimmern and Christie on this summing-up?

"Firstly, the whole of the Zimmern and Christie evidence had been admitted and placed before them as proper material for their consideration,

MURDEROUS HATE.

"Secondly, they were directed that the purpose of that evidence as a whole was to establish two things—the existence of murderous hate in the mind of the prisoner and the attempt to bring about the murder of Fung through Zimmern and Christie.

"Thirdly, the Judge directed that the issue in the case was whether the Crown had proved the accused was the man who employed Lau to organise the murder.

They were directed that there was a distinct gap between the evidence of Tsui which did not implicate the accused and the evidence of Zimmern and Christie.

"Is it not clear that in these circumstances, the trial Judge should have assisted these gentlemen by directing them how they could bridge that gap?

"But a perusal of the summing-up discloses this fact—there (Continued on Page 7).

In accordance with custom, Captain Goering and the Deputy Speaker will now request an interview with President von Hindenburg.

Captain Goering was a dashing aviator during the Great War. He commanded in 1918 the air squadron named after von Richthofen, the "Richthofen Circus."

He was Hitler's right-hand man in the "beer-cellars" putch in Munich in 1923 when he was wounded;

He is, in fact, one of the men in whom Hitler has the completest confidence, because he is the born organiser and because of his worldly polish.

Son of an old Prussian family which had numbered ministers of State in its ranks, husband of a Swedish baroness, member of the Reichstag, during the war he distinguished himself as a fighting officer and was awarded the order of "Pour le Mérite," something much higher than the rather cheaply bestowed Iron Cross.

The Bidding.

South passed, West opened with one No Trump—a bare minimum. North overcalled with two hearts, East bid three diamonds and South went to three hearts which bought the contract. At three tables the hand was actually passed out.

The Play.

East opened his fourth best diamond—the six spot—which South the dummy won with the ace. A small spade was then returned, the declarer winning with the ace and returning a small spade to dummy's 10. East winning the trick with the jack. East led the king of diamonds which the declarer trumped with a small heart. A small spade was then led and trumped in dummy. Declarer returned the king of trump from dummy which West won with the ace. Immediately returning the six of trumps. Declarer won the trick with the queen and returned his last spade, trumping in dummy with a heart.

The No Trump bid by West had practically marked him with the ace of clubs, therefore the declarer now led a small club from dummy and when West refused to go up with the ace, the declarer played the king and then returned the deuce of clubs which East was forced to win with the queen. West could not overtake with the ace to prevent the end play or he would set up dummy's jack of clubs.

Before leading the club, the declarer had been careful to strip the dummy's hand of diamonds and spades. The East hand was stripped of everything but diamonds. He was now forced to lead a diamond which the declarer trumped in the dummy and discarded the losing club from his own hand on it.

Stripping the hand down and then throwing East in the lead with a club forcing him to lead diamonds, gave the declarer four odd, but as only three were bid, no game bonus could be scored.

ROTARY TALK ON STAMPSMR. W. B. WATSON'S ADDRESS TO CLUBCOLLECTING HOBBY

An interesting lecture was given at the Rotary Club tiffin yesterday by Mr. W. R. Watson, the subject of the address being "The Spirit of Rotary in a Scrap of Paper."

The Chairman, the Hon. Mr. S.W. Ts'o, extended a welcome to the following visitors—Mr. H. Schmidt, Hongkong, Rotarian J.R. MacKenzie, New Zealand, Mr. R.R. Campbell, Hongkong and Mr. M.A. Cooper, Hongkong.

Addressing the Rotarians present, Mr. Watson said in part: The emblem of Rotary is a wheel—a figure whose circumference is a circle, something without beginning and without end. The properties of a circle are discussed by Euclid but it is so many years since I passed through College that I can't for the life of me remember what that sage said about it. Anyhow, a circle is something round and when flat, like a coin, for instance, will, if placed on its edge, roll, as many of us have proved in our younger days when we accidentally dropped a sixpence in the street and saw it career into the gutter, out of sight and beyond redemption.

The wheel represented in your emblem has, like every perfect wheel, a hub and in this hub lies what I have termed the "Spirit of Rotary" which, as a result of the centrifugal force created by the revolutions of the axis, spreads along the spokes to the circumference and never ceases to exert its influence unless the wheel ceases to rotate. This description may be more picturesque than scientific, but it will, I believe, serve in a general way to illustrate my idea.

Establishing Rotary. Rotary, if my memory serves me right, was first established as a "going concern" some 26 or 27 years ago. But long before that time the "Spirit of Rotary" was already in a state of ferment and unconsciously expressed itself in a rather unusual but very important manner 92 years ago, in keeping with the rule that the general idea about a thing almost invariably comes into existence long before the thing itself.

Like everything else in nature ideas are subject to the law of evolution. Thus our modern inventions are but the outcome of the efforts of our ancestors in ages past to solve problems which had to be left to us to conquer. Those among you who are Freemasons will appreciate my point when I recall that long before speculative Freemasonry took form in 1717 the Masonic idea existed, and can be traced back into dim antiquity when it served to form the foundation upon which was built up the social life of mankind in the dawn of civilisation. I am going to try to show you how this is also, so with the postal system.

Ancient Postal Systems. History shows us that postal systems for imperial purposes are very ancient institutions, the oldest known being that of China, known as the I Chan, or Government service of Couriers for the transmission of official despatches. This is mentioned in the records of the Chow Dynasty, some 3,000 years ago. This system remained in use until 1912 when the Chinese post office administration undertook the transmission of all despatches.

Coming down to more modern times, in the 13th Century, Britain had an organised system of royal post messengers whose supervisor was the forerunner of the Postmaster General. The first person to hold that position was Sir Brian Tuke, but it was not until Sir Roland Hill took up postal reform that anything like a satisfactory public system was perfect.

ed. "The transmission of the mails had, for many years been very unsatisfactory, in fact almost as bad as our present Trans-Siberian posts, and I expect quite a number of people had written to the editor about it. Moreover the income from the service had dwindled, and as the postal revenues were used to a great extent to pay pensions to people who had no connexion whatever with the service, sweeping reforms were badly needed.

First British Stamp.

Taking the number of letters that were handled by the London postal district, Sir Roland figured out that it would cost far less than 1d. to handle the average mailing. Working on that basis he prepared a plan whereby for 1d. an ordinary letter could be sent anywhere in the United Kingdom, whereas at that time the average cost was from 4d. to 1s. 8d. Finally a Bill was prepared and sent to Parliament, which approved it in 1839 and Sir Roland Hill was appointed to carry out its provisions.

Now, the point I want to emphasize is that it was here that the "Spirit of Rotary"—the spirit of the philosophy of service, found manifestation in what I have irreverently called a "scrap of paper," about one inch square in size, carrying on its face a line engraved design printed in black and on its back a surface of gum, for Sir Roland Hill intended his idea to stick and it did, and has gone on sticking for nearly a century. This was the first adhesive postage stamp, destined to become the world's great philatelic classic, the penny Black of Great Britain, bearing the portrait of Her Most Gracious Majesty, Queen Victoria—an example of postage stamp art that has never been excelled.

With the organisation of his postal system, Sir Roland Hill had created a sort of Garden of Eden in which the 1d. black was the first inhabitant. The Government acting along the line that it was "not good that man should be alone" added a 2d. blue, another classic, to keep the 1d. company, and these two stamps, the Adam and Eve of philately, kept one another company for about a year. Then, in obedience to the laws of nature, additions began to creep into the family, which goes to show how human postage stamps can be when properly understood.

Welding the Nations.

The postage stamp, unimportant as it may appear in itself, and the Universal Postal Union, have done more to bring together people of different nationalities in common accord for a definite object than any other human organisation. This sentiment is shared also by philately—the science of stamp collecting, in a remarkable degree. It is commonly said that death is the great leveller, as it brings all mankind to a common level in six feet of ground, where, in the disintegration of the elements of the body, nature treats us all alike. But the postage stamp produces a like effect in a much more agreeable manner, for it brings kings and commoners to a common level in the pursuit of a hobby. As an outstanding proof of this we have the fact that His Gracious Majesty King George V is an ardent collector, and has not only instructed the curator of his marvellous collection of Great Britain and British Dominion and Colonial stamps to exhibit his prizes to all who desire to see them, but often takes delight in explaining to visitors in person, when time and circumstances allow, the principal gems which adorn the pages of his collection.

First Philatelist.

I might mention also in closing that the first stamp collector in the world was the father of our present sovereign, the late King Edward VII, who was born the year following the appearance of the first stamp. It seems that the Comptroller of the Queen's Household had, merely as a matter of form, pasted in a small memorandum book a copy of the 1d. black and the 2d. blue, to which he later added other stamps as they ap-

LEAP YEAR BRIDE by Laura Lou BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY.

Cherry Dixon, pretty 16-year-old daughter of wealthy parents, falls in love with Dan Phillips, newspaper reporter. She quarrels with her father about Dan, leaves home and goes to the marriage of Leap Year, asks Dan to marry her.

They are married and for the first time Cherry finds what it means to lack money. She strives to earn it and, after interviewing Dixie Shannon, movie critic of the News, is friendly with Cherry. She meets handsome Max Pearson who also works on the News.

Cherry receives a letter from her mother enclosing a cheque for $500. She returns the cheque because pride will not let her keep it. Dan, worried about bills, undertakes to write a letter which becomes discouraging and leaves it unfinished.

Two days later Cherry learns her mother is critically ill. She goes home and her mother's bedside. Her father and daughter are reconciled. Late at night the nurse announces Cherry to Mrs. Dixon's room.

CHAPTER XXVII

The single lamp was still burning in the big room. Cherry hurried to the bedside. She was clutching a robe about her. "I'm here, Mother," she said eagerly. "You wanted me?"

The woman on the pillow raised her eyes. They were brown eyes, so much like Cherry's. They looked dark now against the pale face. "My—little girl," Mrs. Dixon said gently. "Cherry—come here beside me."

The girl knelt at the side of the bed. "What is it, Mother?" she asked. "I'll do anything."

The sleek woman smiled. She raised one slim hand to touch the girl's hair. "Cherry," she went on slowly, "I'm so glad you've come back. You mustn't—misjudge your father, dear. I want to know—you're going to be—friends."

"Of course I don't misjudge him, Mother. I know how he feels. But everything's going to be all right now. He said so!"

For an instant happiness seemed to light the pallid cheeks. "He said—that?" she repeated. "Oh, I'm so glad!"

The words seemed to take the woman's last bit of strength. Her eyes closed almost instantly in sleep. She had been clinging to Cherry's hand but now the fingers loosened. The rise and fall of her breathing came regularly.

Cherry knelt there for a long while. Mrs. Dixon slept as peacefully as a child. Presently the nurse put a hand on the girl's arm and motioned for her to rise.

Cherry realized for the first time that she was shivering. The night air had grown colder and her dressing gown had slipped down from her shoulder.

She went down the corridor to her own room and got into bed. Within five minutes she was asleep.

Despite Dr. Knowles' cheerful predictions three days passed before he gave the definite word that Mrs. Dixon had passed the crisis in her illness. Little by little her strength returned. There were times during those three days when the doctor's calls stretched out over several hours. There were times of anxiety for everyone in the household. Walter Dixon did not go to his office. He remained in his own room or downstairs in the study. Cherry and her father met for meals that were almost silent, the food set before them and taken away scarcely tasted. Father and daughter waited nervously outside the door of the upstairs bedroom for the brief bulletins the nurse could bring.

Each day Cherry telephoned to Dan. She stayed on at her parents' home, making one hasty trip to the apartment for clothing. Pinky, the kitten, had been quarantined upstairs with Dixie Shannon. The world seemed to have stopped in its regular orbit. Everything centred about the battle being waged in that upstairs bedroom.

Then on the morning of the fourth day Dr. Knowles greeted the father and daughter with a cheerful smile. "If this improvement continues," he announced, "Mrs. Dixon is going to be herself in a

BEYOND HER REACH.

The Cussedness of Things.

What one might be tempted to call the cussedness of things, if one did not realise that everything that happens in this strange world of ours is really part of a great and elaborate design, was brought home to me forcibly the other day by one of those tiny incidents that can mean so much more than they appear to mean to those who figure in them.

I was looking at some tortoises, and watching one energetic and enterprising fellow's movements in particular.

I was thinking all sorts of thoughts about that queer thing, but definitely had no desire to possess it.

Breaking into my thoughts came the voice of a small girl, who, seeing my apparent interest in the creatures, could not restrain her desire to be helpful.

"They're half a crown for the big ones and one and six for the small ones!" she said.

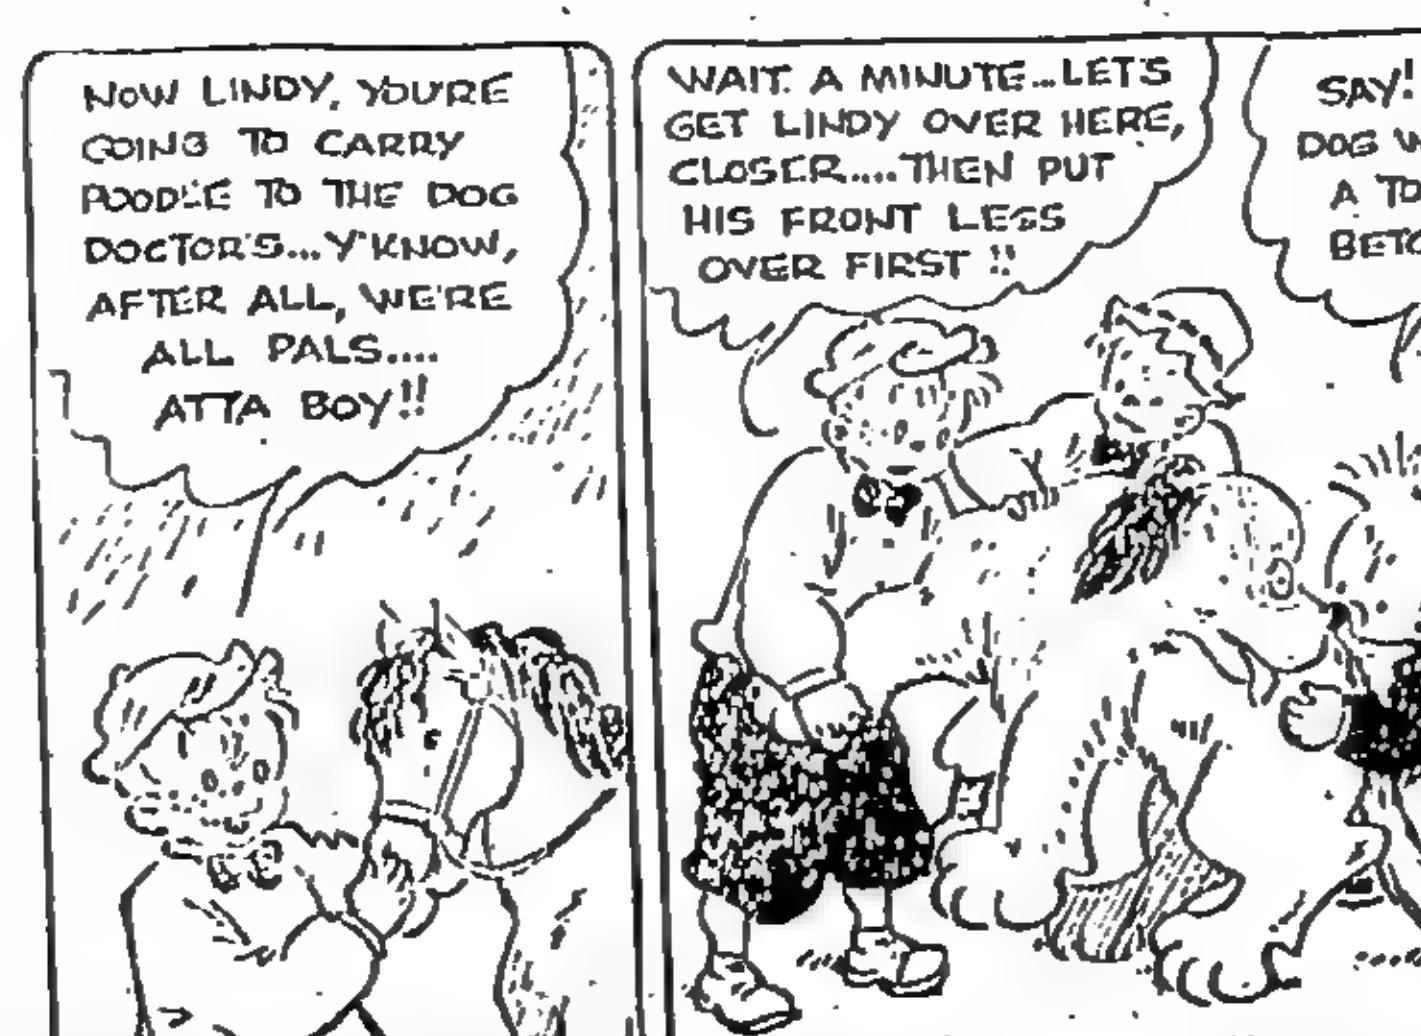

Her blue eyes were shining with interest and longing. But what struck me was that the desire for possession should be in the breast of the one to whom the price was prohibitive, and I wondered how long before she had attained the means to satisfy her longing—the desire for the tortoise would have died.

Is it not often thus in life?"

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

By Joan Savoy.

There is something gay and intriguing about sweaters this season which will put you in the play spirit as soon as you pull one over your head. Sweaters are no longer just knitted garments. Each one has a distinctive design of its own and a smart way of adapting itself to the summer programme. The fitted look is an important feature.

Copenhagen blue stands out against a White Indian design in one sweater which features an oblong neck, slightly puffed sleeves, and a blouse that gets its fullness above the normal waistline. The sweater is worn by the girl at the left.

The girl at the right is as interested in the sport she is watching as other people are in her large mesh sweater, which is an interesting sun-tan colour, especially becoming to sun-browned skins. It has a V-neck and long sleeves.

The girl who is smiling knows that her sweater, which gives an ombre effect by means of black, grey and white stripes, is taking plenty of tricks of its own. It also features long sleeves and a V-neck.

Both of the long sleeved sweaters use pearlizing to tighten the wrists and band neck.

BEAUTY TREATMENTS.

For Busy Women.

Busy women are welcoming a new and inexpensive beauty treatment, designed to make them fresh and spruce without needless waste of time. This treatment takes only twenty minutes, and during that time the face is cleansed and made up, an expert deciding rapidly the exact shade of cosmetics that will suit the client's dress-colouring.

For this a new powder is being made in a deep shade of tea rose. A much deeper shade is sold as rouge, with a lipstick of nasturtium red, and the deep pink of the colour, with the tinge of yellow which it contains, gives a glow to complexions which would otherwise pale in the sunshine.

One of the ingredients of the powder is intended to keep the skin cool and fresh.

A Continental treatment which is being given in London is intended to take away tired lines and wrinkles, especially from beneath the eyes. Heavy eye pads, soaked in lotion, are put over the eyes, and while the "patient" rests, an orange light plays over her wrinkles. It has the effect of ironing out the tired lines and leaving her rested for the day.

Ten-Rose Complexions.

Very strong sunlight has the effect of making some women appear pallid, and this slightly blue tinge has to be counteracted by careful make-up.

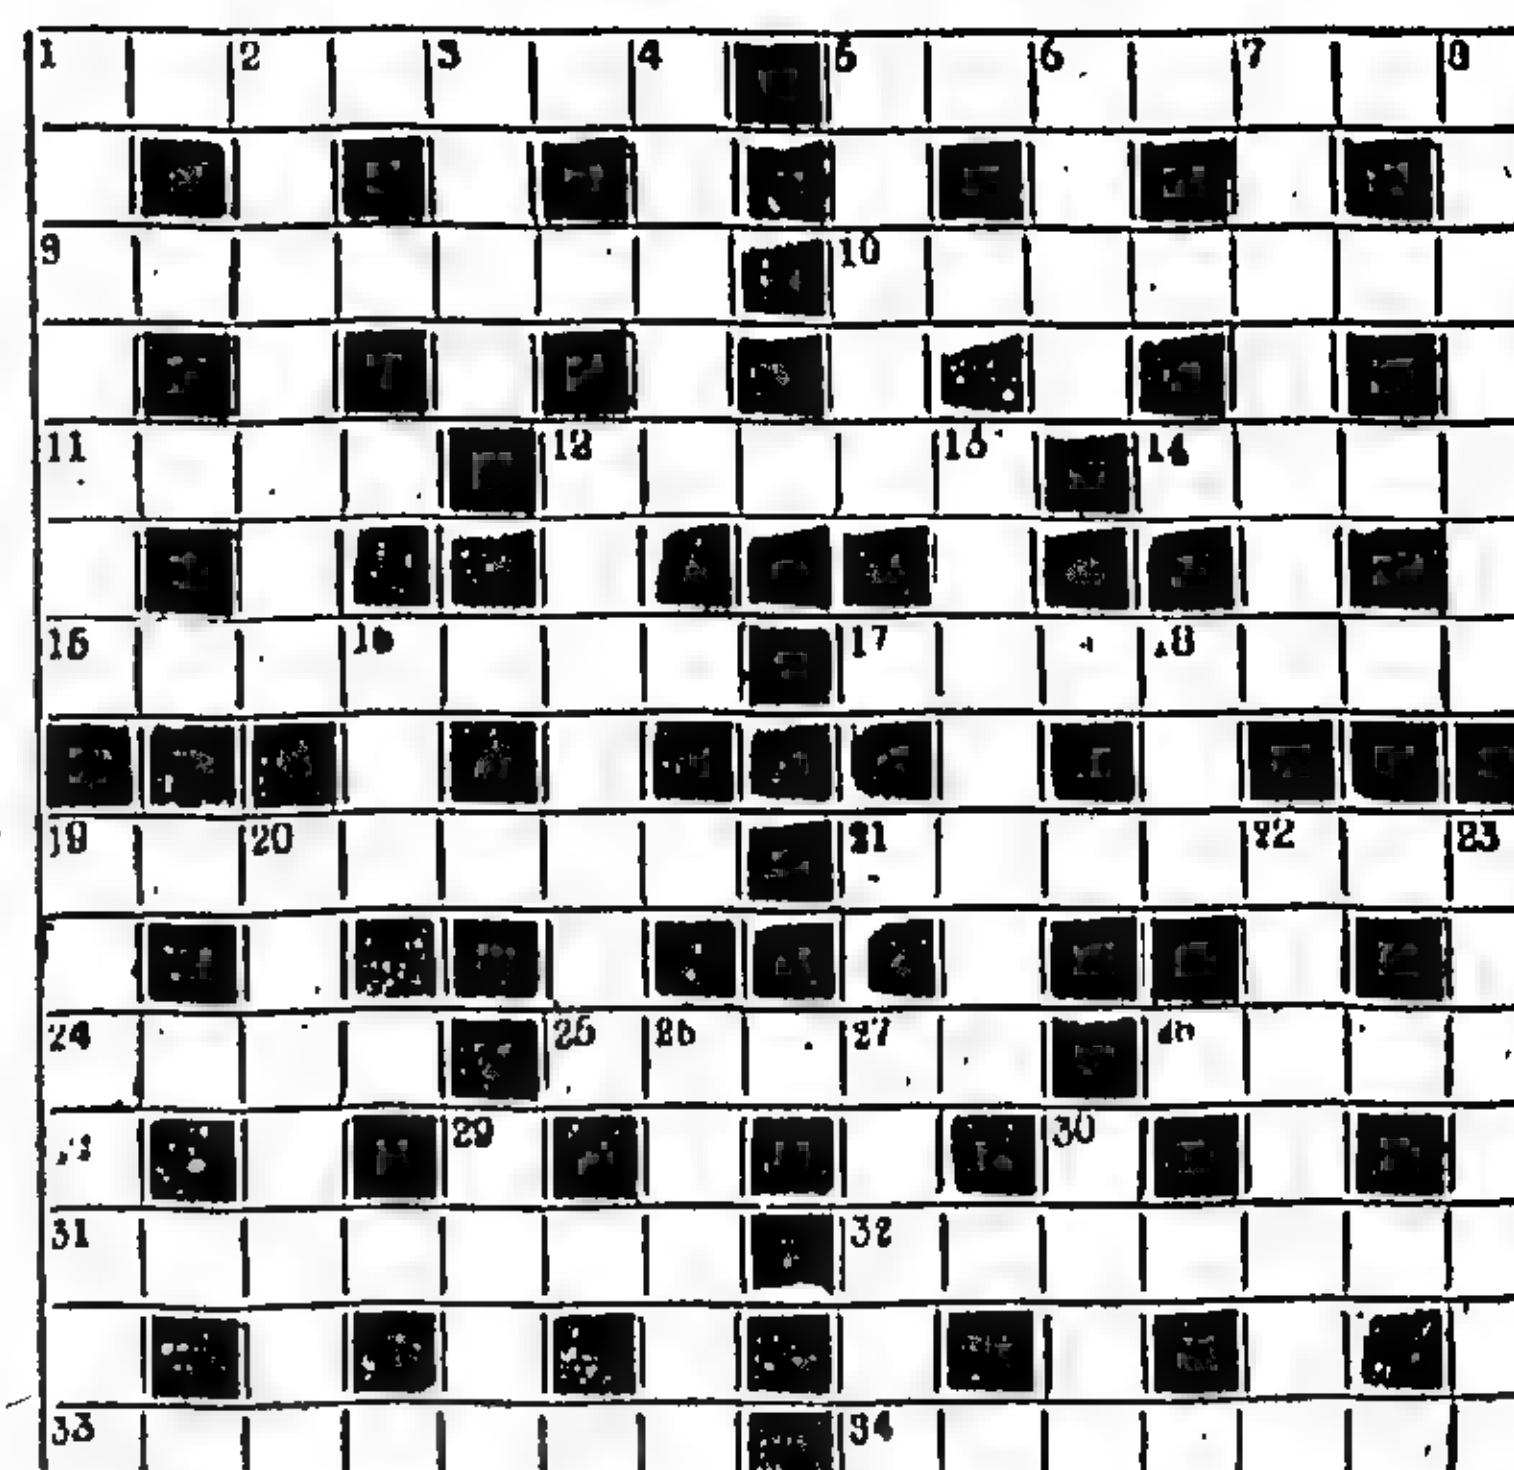

For this a new powder is being made in a deep shade of tea rose. A much deeper shade is sold as rouge, with a lipstick of nasturtium red, and the deep pink of the colour, with the tinge of yellow which it contains, gives a glow to complexions which would otherwise pale in the sunshine.

Bright Wednesday

DULL TEETH that are ugly, yellow and decayed are enemies of beauty, health and happiness. They are offensive and inexcusable. Germs sweep into the mouth causing this condition —called Bacterial-Mouth. But Kolynos quickly conquers this foe. The result is astonishing.

Use the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique for 3 days—one half-inch on a dry brush morning and night. Then look at your teeth—fully 3 shades whiter.

When Kolynos enters the mouth you can feel it foam into every pit, fissure and crevice. Germs that cause stain and decay are quickly killed, acids neutralized, and teeth are cleaned and restored to their natural whiteness without injury.

If you want whiter, sounder teeth and firm pink gums, start using Kolynos.

WAR CLOUDS

If Count Uchida really believed that his recent declaration of Japan's intentions in Manchuria would, as he averred, remove the causes of Sino-Japanese friction, he must by this time be completely disillusioned. The speech has been received with indignation in Chinese circles, and it is now foreseen as a probability that Japanese recognition of the new State will be followed by the ordering of punitive expedition by the Chinese Government against Manchukuo. Such a development would mean a big upheaval and virtually place China and Japan at war one with another. It might lead to even graver consequences, possibilities of which could not but be viewed with the utmost concern.

Meanwhile, the signs of growing Sino-Japanese hostility are apparent on all hands, notably in Shanghai, where the situation would appear to be drifting into dangerous channels. The intensive form which the boycott movement is assuming, coupled with terroristic activities on the part of organisations seeking to prevent the sale of Japanese goods, is quite naturally causing offence to the Japanese, whilst, on the other hand, the evidence of Japanese preparations for the possible use of force is also an aggravating factor in an already highly-charged situation. There are, of course, charges and counter-charges, all tending to obscure the position, but there can be no doubt that the underlying fact that mutual distrust, if not hatred, it will be surprising if, in such an atmosphere, there is not another flare-up in the near future. Unfortunately, neither side appears disposed to attempt methods of pacification aiming at the creation of a calmer atmosphere. Thus the tension grows day by day, with the ever-present danger of a rerudescence of the clash witnessed in the early part of the year. That trouble, local though it was in character, was a reaction from Japan's policies in Manchuria, and the point to be kept in mind is that these policies, so far from having been modified, have become intensified, thus naturally heightening Chinese feelings. The Japanese attitude in regard to Manchuria is the more regrettable from the fact that, on the eve of the appearance of the Lytton Report, a document which will present an unbiased study of the situation, the Tokyo Government sees fit to compromise the position by deciding on early recognition of the new State. Indeed, Count Uchida's recent declaration of policy, ill-timed as it was, can be construed as something in the nature of an affront both to the League of Nations and its Commissar.

Looking at the situation broadly, we cannot but regret, in common with all who have the interests of peace at heart, that the position wears such a gloomy aspect as it does. All right-thinking people will agree that disputes such as those which have arisen between China and Japan should be capable of solution by peaceful methods; indeed, the whole trend of international contact in recent years has been in the direction of creating machinery towards this end, of which the League of Nations and the Anti-War Pact, together with the Nine-Power Treaty in specific reference to China, are outstanding illustrations. But Japan's attitude in evincing a disposition to ignore all that these agencies imply, has been far from helpful. China may not be free from all blame, but the provocation she has received is beyond question. It remains to be seen how the Powers will react to any developments which threaten the peace of the Far East. The responsibility which weighs upon them in this crisis is indeed grave. Let us hope that it will be discharged in a manner helpful, towards a wise and lasting adjustment of the issues.

Listening Through Your Hat

With a radio set in his helmet there will be times when the London "bobby" will be quite ready to admit he has "a bee in his bonnet." A news dispatch announces that a group of London police are to be equipped with miniature sets, the essential part of which is carried in the bowler or helmet and operates to enable the man beneath it to hear whatever may be received on the wavelength to which it is attuned. The chief value lies in the facility with which central stations may get in touch with the men on patrol in cases of emergency. No earphones are used in this new equipment. In fact, the policeman gets no more of a signal than the message sent out by his superior. His nose does not even light up nor a whistle blow. But radio receivers do funny things sometimes and the London "bobby" who gets too close to some of the electrical contrivances on his beat may get impressions of more than one "bee in his bonnet" if a hum of the proper dimensions falls into step with his wavelength. But this radio-in-your-hat idea may be popularized, says the Christian Science Monitor. The appeal of listening to the Crispy Cruller Crooners, the Bedtime Bugaboos and the Singing Syncopators may be great enough to prompt a general demand for hat sets for street use. Undoubtedly it would be a great pleasure to saunter through the park to the tune of "When the Merry Moonbeams Mobilize in May," or rest a while by the riverside while Sidney Softus soggily sang the stirring strains of "Suddy Soap for Soapy Suds."

A belated issue of the London Times, delayed owing to the holding up of the Siberian mail, gives a full report of the wedding of Dr. G.A.C. Herklots and Miss Iris Walter, which took place in St. Peter's, Eaton Square, on July 21, as reported in this paper at the time. There was a large and fashionable gathering, and the feature was the number of Hongkong people who were present. The many bridesmaids lent an additional charm to the proceedings. Among those present at the ceremony were Sir William and Lady Peel, Mrs. G. G. Mackie, Mrs. R. M. Dyer, Mrs. H. P. W. Huston, Mrs. Onions and Miss M. Oakes, Major and Mrs. Gordon Home, Mr. G.W.A. Tufton, Mr. A. H. Crook, Professor Robertson and Mrs. Robertson, Professor Shillane, Professor Digby, and Professor Middleton Smith, all of Hongkong University, and Canon H. G. G. Herklots, of Winnipeg (brother of the bridegroom) and Mrs. Herklots. The best-man was Mr. Soomo Jenyns, now of the British Museum, and formerly of the Hongkong Civil Service.

Owing to unforeseen circumstances the concert arranged by the China Light and Power Recreation Club for next Saturday has had to be cancelled.

Another 34 sacks of Siberian mail are due to arrive in the Colony tomorrow on the ss. Yanakuni Maru, according to an announcement made by the Postal Authorities.

During demolition work on the Kwong Tung Rubber Factory, of Nam Cheung Street, a native, Wai Kam-yan, aged 46, fell from the first floor and sustained injuries to his legs. He was later removed to the Kwong Wah Hospital.

The death occurred in Hongkong yesterday of the octogenarian grandmother of Cheng Kwok-yau, who was recently convicted by a special jury on a charge of procuring the murder of George Fung, and whose case is now being argued before the Full Court.

After partaking of some Chinese medicinal drink, Li Kam, aged 21, and his wife, Chan Cho-mui, aged 23, of 31, Shanghai Street were both removed to the Kwong Wah Hospital last night suffering from the effects of poisoning. It is stated that their condition may be serious.

Eight cases of cholera, two from Victoria and six from Kowloon, with six deaths, were reported last week. There was only one case on Monday. Three cases of typhoid with four deaths, and one case of meningitis with one death, were also notified during last week. Deaths from pulmonary tuberculosis totalled 48.

The fortnightly meeting of the Sanitary Board was held yesterday in the Board Room, the business transacted being purely formal. Mr. G. R. Sayer, the President, was in the chair, and the others present were the Hon. Mr. R. M. Henderson (Vice-President), Dr. G. W. Pope, M.O.H., Mr. Wong Kwang-tin, Mr. L. C. F. ## CORRESPONDENCE.

Lost Letters.

[To the Editor, Hongkong Telegraph.]

Sir.—As a resident in Hongkong with relatives in Macao I am in the habit of sending letters and newspapers through the post to the latter port very frequently and since a few months ago I have noted with surprise that a considerable amount of correspondence failed to reach its destination. I do not know whether this experience is unique in my regard but certainly it is obviously a very serious matter that losses like this should take place so often. Without exaggeration I may say that two out of ten letters or papers disappear in transit.

Since the above occurrences I send all letters by registered mail. I have lived in many other ports but never experienced the like before. In order to safeguard the rights of the people who utilize the post, I feel that thorough investigation of this matter is necessary. I am not aware of having ever lost any correspondence between Hongkong and other cities; it is only between here and Macao that such losses have taken place.—Yours, etc., JOHN S. H. WANN.

Meadows, can't you find some paper cups? These glasses strike the wrong note for a picnic.

Background of the Socialist State in Chile

By PAUL VANORDEN SHAW.

THE concurrence of forces and trends in Chile, until recently antagonistic, has resulted in the Socialist revolution. A political current with Liberal and Socialist objectives crossing an economic whirlpool of discontent and suffering has brought forth the first Socialist state in the history of the New World.

A Chilean was once asked how the Chileans of the interior of his Republic worked and lived. With a fleeting smile he replied, "They do nothing, there is no 'interior' in my country." In more serious vein he went on to say that this explained in large part the absence of "tropicalness" in the Chilean character. Truly there can hardly be an interior in a land 2,000 miles long, with an average width less than the distance between New York City and Philadelphia. Furthermore, the habitable land, beginning at the very shores of a treacherous, tempestuous sea, rises to the peaks of volcanic and eternally snow-clad mountains. Moreover, much of this land is desert and much of the rest is not suitable to cultivation.

By "tropicalness" was meant the leisurely manner, the florid speech and the emotional nature of peoples who dwell in larger and warmer lands. The Chileans have no room to be expansive and uncontrolled, no time to waste in graceless gestures and little occasion to rove aimlessly about sunsets and violets. Not even in colonial times could they take life easily. From the first they had to fight a grand but forbidding nature and the most warlike Indians found in America. They won both fights and a sign of their sportsmanship is the little metal representations of Cuauhtemoc, the great Araucanian warrior, that most Chileans wear on their lapsels.

These struggles developed the Chileans into a hardy, tempered, disciplined and active people. They learned co-operation much as their New England brethren had learned it on the rock-bound coasts of New England. Whether it be the peon—the famous rot—the landed aristocrat or the more recent industrialist and engineer, physical and mental courage are outstanding attributes of Chileans. Proud and practical are they too.

It is no wonder then that the political history of Chile has been one of steadiness and stability. From 1833 to 1861 has been called the period of the aristocratic Republic. This was the heyday of the landed aristocrat. The elections of 1861—and Chilean elections have usually been genuine elections—ushered in the era of the liberal aristocrats who introduced a number of needed reforms. Exactly thirty years later, after the only revolution in Chilean history between 1833 and 1924, ministerial responsibility and a more truly democratic form of government was wrested from the aristocrats.

This slow democratization was speeded up in 1920 when the first man of the people was elected President, Don Arturo Alessandri; it would have been, that is, if a deadlock with the Congress and a revolution had not intervened. When Col. Carlos Ibáñez made himself President, democratic reforms appeared too reactionary and a comprehensive programme of social legislation passed by executive decree and other methods

All Chile's eggs were in one basket. Hard-pressed peoples needed a substitute for the padre's discovery. Germans developed synthetic nitrates and the basket fell with a crash. The monopoly and the spell were broken. While frantic efforts were being made to save a tragic situation, another calamity attacked the Chilean economic structure. Copper prices fell, all prices fell. Great loans had been floated in the world's new credit centre and the payments on their service came with annoying and deadening regularity. The fountain of credit not only dried up, but everything else, and Chile found herself for the first time in her history obliged to default on her bonded indebtedness.

Hope came again for a brief moment when Cosach, the Compañía Salitrera Chilena, or the Chilean Nitrate Company, was formed. All the nitrate interests of Chileans and of North Americans and Britishers in Chile entered into partnership with the Chilean Government to save the day. The arrangements are technical and to describe them would serve no purpose. Nor, as a Chilean writer has said, would it serve any purpose to determine whether the opposition of the Chileans to this combine is valid in fact. For, almost as soon as the terms of its charter were known a nationalist clamor arose against the executive "who had sold Chile to North American capitalists." Whether this was the case or not, perhaps a majority of the Chileans believed that it was true.

Cosach served as much as anything else to cause Chileans to examine their own national resources, their productive processes. Many had never realized how much foreign capital was invested in their land, how many industries were controlled by North American and European capitalists. And in a period when North Americans were taking their own bankers to task and laying at their doors the blame for a world cataclysm, ignorant Chileans, and well-educated ones, too, for that matter, can hardly be blamed for seeking to shift much of the responsibility for their woes on Uncle Sam's children, Uncle Shylock to them.

Despair and destitution seemed to face the Chilean people. Government after government, solution after solution, failed.

A trend of a century in the direction of political and social justice; many decades of an intense nationalism recently inflamed by fagots saturated with unreasoning fear, hatred and suspicion of foreign capitalists; and an economic collapse that came later than it did in other lands, but with a suddenness and completeness that would have annihilated a less hardy people, have led them, now fully aware of their rights, awake to newer possibilities, and but recently so tantalizing. JURY'S MIND not a single sentence which gives the slightest assistance or direction to these seven laymen as to how by law, or to proper application of fact, they could solve these difficulties."
BLURRED

Continuing, Mr. Jenkin said that from the summing-up the jury may have thought they were entitled to take the Zimmern-Christie evidence in its totality and that the accused, on that evidence, was the man likely to have committed the crime—that he was just the sort of person to employ Lau.

BLURRED AND CONFUSED. It was possible that the jury entered on their consultations with blurred and confused minds as to how they could rightfully apply the different parts of the evidence to the issues before them.

Mr. Jenkin then dealt with each paragraph of the summing-up. The jury, he said, were left to make up their minds on three points—whether they believed the Tsui evidence, whether they believed the Zimmern-Christie evidence, (and there was no limitation suggested about this evidence) and if they believed both, were they satisfied that the accused was guilty?

LEFT IN AIR.

Counsel complained that the Tsui evidence was hardly dealt with at all. There were general references to the inconsistencies, wavering and probable untruthfulness of his evidence, but the evidence itself was left entirely in the air.

Referring to the Zimmern-Christie evidence, he said the trial Judge had failed to give them assistance by which they could properly weigh and adjudicate this evidence.

The Chief Justice: The summing-up was, immediately after the argument of leading counsel for the defence, which dealt with many points of great importance.

Mr. Jenkin said the law was clear on this point—that the onus is on the Judge to sift the evidence for the jury. He contended that the conviction should be quashed:

CROWN REPLY.

Mr. H. G. Sheldon, leading counsel for the Crown said that he would dispute the defence's claim that this was a complicated case. He admitted that the hearing was long, but contended, in spite of that, it was an ordinary criminal case.

He submitted that no principles were involved. Evidence of the class objected to had been admitted time and again.

"The only reason for this long and learned argument," he said, "is that the prisoner has the advantage of the learning, ingenuity and forensic eloquence of my friends."

Mr. Sheldon's argument that the evidence of Zimmern and Christie was admissible was supported by what he termed "concrete cases."

Mr. Sheldon contended that the following reasons showed why the evidence was admissible.

It was admissible under the heading of motive. The evidence showed that Fung had taken Lai Ming-say away from the prisoner; that Cheng had said Fung was a rotter, that he ought to be dead and that he had procured a gang to beat him up, and the evidence showed jealousy and hatred of Fung.

MEANS AND OPPORTUNITY.

The evidence was further admissible under the heading of means and opportunity. It demonstrated that he attempted to get Christie to murder Fung by offering $10,000, and that he had a chauffeur who would drive Christie away after the murder and that he had other men shadowing Fung for the purpose of killing him.

A further point of admissibility was under the heading of preparations; that he had made preparations for murder with that end in view. The purchase of the syringes and the experiment on the chicken which had good results. There was the additional evidence that he had threatened to do the act by getting Zimmern to find him a dagger.

ONE OR ALL.

Thus the evidence was admissible under one of these headings, or under all.

The evidence of Zimmern and Christie, submitted Mr. Sheldon, was relevant to prove many things. It proved jealousy, hatred, intention to kill, means of killing and preparations of killing on the part of the prisoner.

If that evidence was admissible then the result was overwhelming evidence to show that prisoner prepared the murder of Fung.

BOLD COUNSEL.

Mr. Sheldon went on to quote his authorities in respect, and in referring to the submissions of the defence in law, said that they would not find any cases like that of the defence in any of the books, because no counsel had been bold enough to argue it before.

"In every case you will find a gap" added Mr. Sheldon, "but this is not entirely a case of conjecture. The jury simply had to find what was reasonable."

Mr. Potter intimated he would exercise his right of reply and address the Court this afternoon.

THREE FINED AND
FOUR NOTKAI TACK TRESPASS
PROSECUTION

Seven Chinese were charged before Mr. Fraser at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning with being unlawfully found on the grounds of the Kai-Tack Aerodrome yesterday morning.

Three pleaded guilty and were fined $5 each.

The others denied the charge, saying they were outside the grounds.

Sergeant Estall informed his Worship that the defendants were found by an Indian watchman inside the Aerodrome. They were caught and later handed over to the Police.

Aircraftsman George Knott, giving evidence, testified to the defendants being brought to the guard-room by an Indian watchman.

The Indian watchman deposed to arresting the defendants inside the grounds of the Aerodrome.

His Worship said under the Ordinance, defendants could not be said to have been trespassing. If they admitted being unlawfully found inside the grounds of the Aerodrome, he could deal with them. If they pleaded not guilty, as they did here then the Air Force authorities must prove that it was unlawful under the Ordinance for the defendants to be found on their grounds. Otherwise the defendants could not be convicted.

He was not satisfied with the evidence of the Indian watchman, and dismissed the cases.

EUROPEAN LOSES
FOUNTAIN PENTICKET-OF-LEAVE
MAN SENTENCED

An hour after reporting himself to the Police, a ticket-of-leave man snatched a fountain pen from a European moving in the crowd near the Central Market yesterday.

Mr. O. D. Burnett, the victim, who chase, but although he succeeded in seizing the culprit, was unable to recover his property, which had been dropped and probably taken by another thief working in collusion with the first.

The case was tried by two Magistrates, namely, Mr. Schofield and Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Police Court this morning. Five previous convictions were proved against the prisoner, who was sentenced to two years' hard labour, to be followed by two years' police supervision.

New York, Aug. 30. The Cubs continue their winning streak in the National League and it becomes increasingly certain that they will provide the opposition to the Yankees in the World Series. To-day they defeated the Giants 4-3; Cuylar (Cubs) and Ott (Giants) hitting for the circuit.

The Reichstag, immediately the date is inserted into the "dictatorship" decree, can do nothing which has not the full approval of Captain von Papen.

RESTORATION RUMOURS.

The assumption of autocratic control, or rather the contemplated assumption thereof, has revived the rumours that the way is being paved, fourteen years after the overthrow of the ex-Kaiser, for the restoration of the Monarchy, in fact if not in name.

Sensational news was telegraphed from Berlin by Reuter recently to the effect that:

The resignation of President Hindenburg on his eighty-fifth birthday, on October 2, and the emergence of the ex-Crown Prince (Little Willie of the war) as a candidate for the Presidency is one of the startling possibilities of the German political situation.

The report, Reuter's correspondent added, is not a sensational story spread by Radical scare-mongers, but is the opinion current in German National circles.

The ex-Crown Prince is living in Germany at the moment. He caused a sensation at the last Presidential election by issuing a manifesto in favour of Hitler. The Nazi (National Socialist) leader.

MAY STARTLE WORLD.

Official circles will probably deny the report of the President's intention, says Reuter, but confirmation appears in an article in a Munich paper, which says: "Hindenburg will resign in the autumn in favour of the ex-Crown Prince as administrator of the Reich."

The belief in Berlin is that President Hindenburg will issue a proclamation on October 2, urging the election of the former Crown Prince as his successor.

"If the ex-Crown Prince takes the field as a candidate for the Presidency," the Munich paper adds, "Bavaria's independence may be at stake, and therefore there is no reason for surprise that strong forces have been at work for the creation of the post of a Bavarian State President, who would be ex-Crown Prince Rupprecht."

SURPRISES IN STORE.

Political circles are convinced that the men now in power have many surprises up their sleeves, which—when they come to light, may startle the world.

The ex-Crown Prince, who celebrated his fiftieth birthday with his family at Oels in Silesia, last month, has been leading the life of a private German citizen since his return from his exile on the island of Wieringen, in Holland.

He has plenty of money, travels a great deal in his high-powered car and is a constant visitor to international tennis and boxing tournaments.—Reuter and N.E.A.

CRICKET FINISHING WITH GLUT OF CENTURIES

SUTCLIFFE GETS ANOTHER

"TEST" BOWLERS IN FORM

SUSSEX RECORD GONE

London, Aug. 30. THE county cricket season of 1932 is rapidly waning, but it is not passing without a final "kick", and in the final matches during the past three days, batsmen and bowlers got busy proving how well they could play.

Eight centuries resulted from this industrious effort, whilst the bowlers, not to be entirely eclipsed, played a fair part in this "brighter cricket" movement. Goddard taking 14 wickets in one match and White and Mitchell (the "Test" nominee) bagging a dozen each.

A Sussex record went by the board when Yorkshire, the champions, visited Hove and inflicted upon the southerners their first defeat of the season.

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP.

Surrey (356 & 294-5 dec.) beat Middlesex (206 & 215) by 229 runs at Lord's. Somerset (113) beat Warwick (181 & 169) by an innings and 63 runs at Tanton. Lancashire (295 & 192-8) beat Notts (233) on 1st innings at Manchester. Gloucester (315 & 255-5) beat Hampshire (305 & 220-9 dec.) on 1st innings at Gloucester. Yorkshire (238 & 225-3 dec.) beat Sussex (166 & 150) by 167 runs at Hove. Derbyshire (254 & 102) beat Leicester (116 & 202) by 36 runs at Ashby-de-la-Zouch.

Another splendid all-round performance by F. R. Brown the Surrey amateur and Test player marked the local "Derby" between Middlesex and Surrey at Lord's, and he played the most important part on the defeat of the home side by 229 runs.

Contributing 135 to Surrey's first innings score of 356, he went on to help dismiss Middlesex for 206 in their reply, taking 6 for 63.

Hobbs came along with a typical second innings century, hitting up 111 out of 294 for 5 declared, and Gover did the rest for Surrey taking 6 for 65 and accounting for Middlesex for a mere 215.

Centuries by R. A. Ingle (108) and Burrough (119) placed Somerset on the high road to a big score which eventually reached 413. To this Warwick had no reply, J. C. White tying the batsmen up in knots in both innings. His 6 for 60 dismissed them for 181 at the first attempt, and he surpassed this in the follow-on, capturing 6 for 46.

By taking first innings points from Notts, Lancashire did Kent a good turn, allowing them to finish third in the table. The match was very inconclusive. Tyldesley (106) played a prominent part in Lancashire's initial score of 295, and Notts only just failed to reach this, being all out for 208. Goddard, with 14 wickets, for 198 runs dominated the match between Gloucester and Hamp-

MALAYAN ATHLETIC MEETING

New Hurdles Record

CULLEN WINS THE CHAMPIONSHIP

Kuala Lumpur, Aug. 29.

The Malayan A.A.A. Championship meeting ended to-day before a crowd which numbered approximately 5,000. Among those present were H. H. the Sultan of Selangor, the Chief Secretary and Mrs. Caldecott, the General Officer Commanding (Major General L. C. L. Oldfield), Sir John and Lady Scott, the Hon. Mr. T. S. Adams and the Hon. Mr. Savage Bailey.

A tie resulted in the high jump Ramachandran and E. H. Tredgold (Singapore) clearing 5 ft. 8½ in. Read was unable to repeat his performance at the Garrison Sports when he beat the Malayan record and had to be content with third place.

A NEW RECORD.

A new record was set up by Eu Eng Hock in the hurdles with 16.1-5 sec.

The change in the distances for the relay race over a mile created some dissatisfaction. It was originally decided that the relay should consist of four runs of 440 yards, but a meeting on Saturday morning decided to change it to four runs of 880 yards, 220 yards and 440 yards. The reason for the change was not disclosed but nevertheless the race proved exceptionally interesting, and resulted in a win for the Military, there being a splendid finish over the last lap between Cullen and the military representative.

The individual championship was won by L. D. E. Cullen (F.M.S. Police) with 8½ points. He won the 220 yards and 440 yards and dead-heated in the 100 yards. He was joint champion two years ago with Yeo Bok Choon. Vythilingham, with a win in the half-mile and second in the quarter, was runner-up with five points.

The team championship was retained by Selangor with 17 points, the F.M.S. Police being second with 15½ points. Others were: Military, 8 points; Penang 6½ points; Perak 6½ points; Singashire in which the former took first innings points.

Sussex failed lamentably against Yorkshire and not only lost the match but the proud record of being undefeated. Sutcliffe added another three-figure innings to his season's aggregate, Leyland contributed 93, Verity took 6 for 48 and Bowes 8 for 62.

Against this the only Sussex effort of note was the bowling of Tate who captured 6 for 79.

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

"It was wrong of me, but, oh, Mother, I've paid for it!"

"But you love your husband, don't you?"

"Of course I do. But I should have made Father understand, I shouldn't have lost my temper."

"We can't undo the past," Mrs. Dixon said quietly. "It's the future we must think about. Your father and I agree that if you love this young man you should go back to your home. That's your duty now, Cherry."

"And I can come to see you? And you'll come to see me?"

"I hope you'll come. Yes, when I'm able I'll come to see you. I'm anxious to know your Dan—"

Cherry departed that afternoon. She telephoned Dan and agreed to meet him at 5:30. Martin drove her down town in the big car. It was arranged that he was to call for Cherry each afternoon and take her to her parents' home for an hour or two.

Cherry leaned back against the thick upholstery and smiled as the limousine rolled along. She was tired yet very happy. The past week had been a tremendous strain but out of so much suffering the world seemed to be righting itself. Her mother was on the road to recovery. Her father for the first time seemed to have lost his aloof, intimidating pose. Walter Dixon had found something he could not bulldoze and terrify—life. Both of her parents were at last reconciled to her marriage.

"Poor Dan!" the girl thought. "I wonder how he's been managing about meals and clean shirts and if he's been at work on time. The apartment must be a sight."

A glow of warm tenderness enveloped her. For days Cherry's thoughts had been selfless, concerned only with others. She felt suddenly a great need for Dan's strength and love.

It was the same road over which she had travelled a week before when Martin's driving had seemed so slow. Now, for exactly opposite reasons, the car seemed to be lagging.

Cherry snapped open her purse and drew out a vanity case. She surveyed herself in the mirror, added another touch of lipstick and then rubbed away most of it. She was wishing that she had started earlier and had time to stop at Louise's shop for a facial treatment. Cherry had never had such a treatment but Dixie Shannon had assured her they were marvelous for removing tired lines.

Suddenly Cherry smiled again. Facial treatments—the ideal! She must remember that she was a poor man's wife now. No more breakfasts served to her in bed. No more turning to Sarah or Martha for everything she wanted done.

"And I'm glad of it!" Cherry told herself earnestly. "It's going to be good to be home. Oh it's going to be wonderful!"

She thought that she meant it.

Martin let her out of the car before the library steps. It was the place where Cherry and Dan had met so often in the days when they were living at the hotel. The chauffeur closed the door after her, touched his cap and drove away.

Dan was nowhere in sight but Cherry was not disturbed. She had learned to expect him to be late. A boy in knee trousers was selling flowers from a basket farther down the street. Cherry strolled toward him, selected a rose to fasten to her blouse and gave him a quarter for it.

"Here's your change, lady," the boy began as Cherry moved away. She smiled, told him to keep the

CAR DRIVER FINED.

FOR DISOBEDIENCE SIGNALS AT GARDEN ROAD

A summons brought against a public car driver at the instigation of Mr. D. M. Goodall was concluded before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday, after a lengthy hearing, it being alleged that the defendant disobeyed the signals of a police officer at the junction of Garden Road and Queen's Road.

Evidence was given by Mr. Goodall to the effect that he was driving down Garden Road and had to stop suddenly to avoid a collision with the defendant's car, which was travelling along Queen's Road from the direction of Wan-chai. The defendant had the signal against him, but he passed two cars which had stopped and drove in front of Mr. Goodall.

After evidence for the prosecution and the defence had been taken, His Worship imposed a fine of $85.

Cherry leaned back against the thick upholstery and smiled as the limousine rolled along. She was tired yet very happy. The past week had been a tremendous strain but out of so much suffering the world seemed to be righting itself. Her mother was on the road to recovery. ## EMPLOYMENT OF CHILDREN

ALL HOURS FOR SIX CENTS A DAY

The proprietor of an umbrella factory at Wing Lok Street was summoned at the Central Magistracy to-day for employing young children outside regulation hours.

The prosecution was undertaken at the instance of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children and conducted in Court by the Factory Inspector at the Secretariat of Chinese Affairs, Mr. F. Meade.

It was stated that two girls, both aged 13, worked at the factory up till 9 p.m. and sometimes midnight. They were seen by the Factory Inspector on a surprise visit working at 7.30 p.m.

It was a fairly common offence, stated Mr. Meade. The girls worked for six cents a day, the working hours apparently being not fixed.

Defendant was fined $60.

OUT OF HOSPITAL INTO GAOL

THE BURGLAR WHO SLIPPED

Discharged from hospital yesterday, an unemployed Chinese was before the Kowloon Magistrate this morning for an adventure on the second floor of No. 5 Hamilton Street on the night of August 5.

Sergeant Meadows, prosecuting, said defendant was seen climbing from the veranda of No. 3 to No. 5 at about 3 a.m. An alarm was raised, and later Police found defendant in the kitchen of No. 5. He had locked the door from the inside and the Police had to break it open. By the time they had done so, defendant had climbed out of the kitchen and was attempting to escape by swimming down the drain pipe. Before he could reach the bottom, he slipped and fell, sustaining injuries which necessitated his being removed to hospital, where he had been since.

Mr. Fraser imposed a sentence of two months' hard labour.

F. R. BROWN AGAIN

SPARKLING CENTURY AND SIX WICKETS

TEST PLAYERS IN GOOD FORM

F. R. Brown, the Surrey and England bowler, whose sudden development into a batsman of century-making possibilities has been one of the minor sensations of the season, brought off another brilliant performance in Surrey's last county engagement concluded yesterday.

He played an important part in a sound victory over Middlesex, scoring 136 in Surrey's first innings in a dashing display, and then taking 6 Middlesex wickets for 63 runs.

Another bowler who is going to Australia, Mitchell of Derby, also had a good match, taking twelve Leicester wickets, to enable a victory by 36 runs.

Sutcliffe, Leyland, Tate, Verity, of the M.C.C. also figured prominently.

Goddard had one of his rare spells for Gloucester, taking fourteen Hampshire wickets at a cost of 198 runs when all other bowlers were ineffective. Details will be found on Page Eight.

NOTED SCIENTISTS TO MEET

THE BRITISH ASSN CONFERENCE

London, Aug. 30. The annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science will be formally opened to-morrow in York, where 101 years ago the first meeting of the Association was held.

This year's President is Sir Alfred Ewing, who is a distinguished scientific engineer with wide experience in many lands. He is one of the oldest members of the Association.

British Wireless.

WEST INDIES UNION

PERSONNEL OF THE COMMISSION

London, Aug. 30. The Commission appointed by the Colonial Secretary, which is to visit the West Indies to examine the possibilities of closer union between Trinidad and the Windward Islands and the Leeward Islands, will comprise General Sir Charles Ferguson (Chairman), Sir Charles Orr and Sir Sydney Armittage-Smith.

They hope to leave not later than the middle of November. The Commission will proceed first to the Leeward Islands, spending December in the Dependencies comprising that group, January in the Windward Islands and reaching Trinidad in February.—British Wireless.

EXCHANGE MARKET UNCERTAIN

WATCHING EVENTS IN NORTH

The Hongkong dollar remains unchanged this morning at 1s. 4.3/8d. The market is uncertain, and very little business is passing, there being a tendency to await developments in the North.

In London, silver rose 1/16th. India and speculators bought, while China sold, the market closing quiet with buyers satisfied. After the official fixing, the market ruled easier, America being inclined to sell.

In New York, silver prices are unchanged, and the market is dull.

PO PIU ARREST

PORTLAND STREET VISIT

Lam Shun, living at No. 51 Portland Street, was charged before Mr. Fraser at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning with keeping a common gaming house and with unlawful possession of 25 police tickets.

Detective-Sergeant Meadows said he found the defendant in a cubicle writing the tickets, which were altogether worth $13.50.

A fine of $100 was imposed on the first and $25 on the second.
